Rule-The Pope's Democratic Policy.

Carlos's · Assailant-Japanese Seizures-Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times London, April 11 .- By Cable and Associated Press.] A spark from an engine ignited gas in a coal pit near Pontyfridd, Wales, and caused a fright ful explosion. Three hundred miners were entombed.

Seventy men succeeded in reaching the surface through the main dip-working, led by a miner who knew the roads. They had a terrible struggle to get out. forcing their way through the fire and

At 9:45 this evening it was still impossible to obtain more than meager details of the accident. The men who saved themselves were to much confused and frightened too observe the positions of their fellow-workingmen. They were unable to give any clear account of the distribution of the miners. and the work of rescue must, therefore, proceed under all the difficulties of uncertainty. At present the flames and smoke would render and attempt at rescue vain, if not fatal, to the party making the descent. There is little doubt, moreover, that the most, if not all, of the men left below have suffo-cated or burned to death.

A'second attempt to enter the seam in which the fire started proved result less. Although the rescue party saw six dead bodies, they were prevented by the smoke and heat from reaching them. The number of men still in the mine cannot be ascertained. At mid night the fire was burning in the sec tion of the mine near the shaft. The service pipe which was used to pour water into the mine burst. The difficulties in the way of quenching the fire were increased greatly, and the rescue of the men below is regarded as hopeless.

BERING SLA-English Blue Books on the Case—Yes-terday's Session.

London, April 11 .- [By Cable and Associated Press. | Blue books containing the American case and counter case in the Bering Sea dispute have been issued. The false translations in the American evidence is described under the head "Imposition practiced upon the United States." The statement concludes thus: "In partly resting their case the United States will at the same time introduce such criticism upon or rebutting evidence to the British case as seems called for."

PARIS, April 11,...The Bering Sea Court of Arbitration was in session for six hours today. The proceedings were strictly private, even the secretaries being excluded.

CHOLICS'S KNIFE.

The Attempt to Assassinate Cardinal Vauzary.
Vienna, April 11.-[By the Associyesterday to assassinate Cardinal Vauzary, the primate of Hungary, From the best-informed sources it is learned the attack was made upon the Cardinal in his palace at Pesth, and his assailant man named Cholics, who had been employed in the palace as cellarman, but who was discharged. Cholics, it appears, was desirous of being reinstated and to gain that end prepared a pe-tition, which he presented to the Cardinal. The latter informed Cholics that he must consult the household that he must consult the household officials. Cholics became insanely enraged, drew a carving knife and made a desperate lunge at the Cardinal, who evaded the blow by springing around the corner of a desk. Rev. Dr. Kohl, the Cardinal's secretary, rushed toward the infuriated man just as Cholics started toward the Cardinal again. In the attention Dr. Kohl reserved. again. In the struggle Dr. Kohl re-ceived five severe wounds in his shoul-ders and breast. The would-be assassin was then grasped by servants and over-

CARLOS'S ASSAILANT. He Proves to Have Been a Harmless

Lisson, April 11.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] It has been officially stated that the report of the attempted assassination yesterday of King Carlos is untrue. The story had its origin in the antics of an insane Jew named Solomon Azancot, who labors under the delusion that he is a brother of the King. Azancot declares that when he approached the King it was merely for the purpose of having a conversation with him. The man had no revolver or other dangerous weapon. Azancot was pronounced insane and taken to an asylum this morning.

THE POPE'S POLICY.

Associated Press. ] A dispatch from Rome, emanating from high authority, states that the Italian government intends upon the occasion of the holding of the next papal conclave to issue a brochure declaring that the next Pope ought to overthrow the democratic pol icy established by the present Pope and become reconciled with the quir inal. The work, it is said, will also de-clare that Pope Leo's successor should favor an alliance between Germany, Austria and Italy. The dispatch adds that in official circles it is greatly feared Areign effect. They smile also at the other attempts the Italian government has made, or may attempt to make, to change the Pope's policy. The ecclesiastical authorities believe the demo cratic policy of the Pope has obtained such a firm hold upon the minds of the people that it will become traditional, A Cyclone Does the Usual and future popes will live up to it.

JAPANESE SEIZURES.

The Pelew Islands in the North Pacific

Captured.

Madrid, April 11.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Much excitement has been caused here by a dispatch to the effect that Japan has seized the Pelew Islands, a group of islands in the North Pacific, which are claimed by Spain, and are 450 miles east of the Phillipine Islands, at the western extremity of the Caroline Archipelago. The islands are claimed by the Spaniards by the right of discovery. The Governor of the Phillipine Islands has sent a cable dispatch asking for reinforcements, whether with the object of attacking the Japanese or not is not stated. The Pelew Islands have about ten thousand inhabitants and are very fertile. Their situation is between the Phillipine Islands and the Caroline Islands, both Spanish colonies. The reported seizure is regarded as a sign that Japan intends to encroach on Spanish possessions in the Pacific. The affair may lead to grave difficulties between

HOME RULE.

Speeches in the House of Commons on the Bill.

LONDON, April 11.—[By Cable and Associated Press. | The first speaker in the House of Commons today on the motion for the second reading of the Home-rule Bill was Ashmead H. Bartlett (Conservative,) who earnestly op posed the bill. He was followed by Michael Davitt, who made a forcible speech in favor of the measure. Davitt said the bill would be accepted by 13,000,000 people of the Irish race, the aspect of peace to be honorably observed. "The Irish," Davitt continued, "did not wish home rule to cost the British Parliament a single penny, and they would not shirk their fair share of imperial expendi-

THE DOCK STRIKE.

Probability That the Affair Will Prove a Failure.

HULL (England,) April 11.—|By Cable

and Associated Press. ] It looks very much as if the dock laborers' strike is about to prove a failure. A lot more non-union men were put to work this morning under police and military protection, making the whole number of non-union men who have taken the places of strikers 2000. This afternoon the strikers showed evidences of weakening, as a number of them applied for and were given work. The firms engaged in the dumber-carrying trade, whose vessels have laid idle since the strike began, have notified their men that unless they return to work at once their places will be filled with non-unionists. London, April 11.—Joseph Wilson, president of the Sailors' and Firemens' Union, is taking an active part in behalf of the strikers at Hull. He has gone to Cardiff to enlist the Dock La-borers' and Sailors' and Firemens' unions in their behalf. He has great influence with the men, and there is every evidence that the shipping trade of Cardiff will become involved in the struggle with the Sailors' and Firemens' Union. The latter has demanded an increase of wages, to go into effect today, and threatens to block the sailing of every vessel unless its demands are complied with.

The dock laborers at Liverpool, Shields and elsewhere are organizing to VIENNA, April 11.—[By the Associated Press.] Conflicting reports have been circulated regarding the attempt a general strike of all the union hands in the shipping trade.

SOUTHERN REVOLUTIONISTS.

Affairs in Honduras-Martial Law in Peru NEW ORLEANS, April 11 .-- By the Associated Press.] Dispatches received here tonight from Honduras announce that the revolutionists have abandoned the interior and are moving toward the Atlantic coast. The fall of Ceiba is confirmed. Steps will be immediately taken by the government to quell the revolution, which is now transferred to the coast.

PANAMA, April 11.-Grave political troubles are reported from all parts of Peru. The most serious disorders so far reported have occurred at the towns of Caturno and Chole. An armed body of men, headed by Gabriel Rivera and a man named Guerro, attacked the Governor's palace; while one portion of the mob held the towns, another besieged the Governor's palace, and many volleys were fired at the official resi-dence. Rosale, one of the defenders of the house, was killed. The soldiers charged upon the rioters. Rivera was killed by the first volley fired by the troops. With the loss of their leader, the rioters fled in all directions. Be-sides the leader. Rivera, three other rioters and a child were killed. More than twenty persons were wounded during the fight.

By Telegraph to The Times.

ST, Louis, April 11.-[By the Associated Press.] Thunder and lightning, hail and wind combined this evening, and formed the severest storm this city has had for vears. Basements in all points of the city were flooded. About 11 o'clock another storm came up. The steamer D. H. Pike, lying at a wharf with no steam up, and five men aboard, was blown adrift, and as no trace can be had of it it is feared she sunk with all on board. The har bor boat, with a small crew aboard was also blown from the same wharf, and has not been heard from. Two searchers are out everywhere. Trees, roofs and outbuildings were also blown down. Several runaways have been reported. Several persons were slightly injured. A portion of an uncompleted structure was blown down, causing a loss of $15,000. A small building was blown out into the street and smashed.

LOSSES IN KANSAS.

Kansas City, April 11.—Parker, a small station on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway, was struck by a eyclone at 7 o'clock this evening. The business part of the town is a complete wreck, as well as half the residence portion. Several persons are reported to have been killed, and a large num-ber seriously wounded. No estimate can be made of the loss at the present

Another cyclone struck Walnut, in the northern part of Kansas, about 9 o'clock, and, after causing much dam-age there, switched off northward into Missouri, and struck successively the towns of Mayview, Page City and Higginsville. All along the route houses were blown down, outhouses and fences destroyed and numerous cattle killed. In Higginsville and Mayview the damage is light, but in Page City it is said the whole town is laid waste.

In the latter place a man named Walker and two children were caught in the ruins of his house and all killed.

dispatches received here tonight from the southern part of Kansas state that a cyclone has passed over that part of the State, and three towns, Willis, Everest and Powhattan, were laid in ruins. As communication with those points is slow, it is almost impossible to stimate the loss of life or property. It seems almost certain that some lives were lost, and it is feared but few in the villages named escaped injury Hail broke hundreds of windows, and is feared spoiled the prospects of the fruit crop this year.

Near Robinson, the fourteen-year-old son of G. F. Polton, a wealthy mer-chant, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

THE STORM IN IOWA

Sioux Ciry, April 11 .- A cyclone struck the town of Akron, Iowa, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Many houses and business buildings were demolished, but there is no loss of life there. The estimated property loss is $50,000 The storm swept through the country to Westfield, S. D., and leveled many farmhouses and buildings.

Near Westfield a man and wife, names unknown, were killed.

The storm crossed the Missouri River near that place and swept across Nebraska to Page, 150 miles west of here. destroying much property en route.
At Page much damage was done, and Clara Mayers was killed and two children dangerously injured. The storm progressed a distance of 200 miles in an hour and forty minutes. Particulars from the intervening country are light. A tremendous cyclone struck Nebraska and lowa this afternoon, doing great damage in some sections. The telegraph and telephone wires are down, and it is impossible to secure details. In the western part of the State the rains amounted almost to cloudbursts.

It Arrives in Chicago, and Was Slightly Damaged.

Only a Few Boxes of Oranges Suffered-The Principal Losses Were on Private Goods Consigned to Merchants.

By Telegraph to The Times CHICAGO, April 11 .- [By the Associ ated Press. ] A portion of the California exhibit in the car that was wrecked Arizona last week has arrived While the boxes have not been unloaded from the car, an examination shows the damage to be much less than previously telegraphed from California. Of the three cars supposed to be World's Fair exhibits from California, two contained oranges shipped by private firms for commercial purposes. As there will probably be a total of a hundred carloads of exhibits from California the loss of a few boxes is not regarded by the State Commission with any great alarm. CHICAGO, April 11.—[By the Associated Press.] Director-General Davis has extended the time for receiving exhibits at the World's Fair from April 10, the day originally set as the last one on which they would be received, until April 30. This was rendered necessary by the fact that only about one-third of the exhibits are now in the WASHINGTON, April 11 .- [By the Associated Press.] Sir Julian Pauncefote became dean of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington this afternoon by virtue of his reception by the President as Ambassador from Great Britain. As Sin Julian is the first Ambassador from any country to the United States, the pre sentation of his papers to President Cleveland made the function of more than usual ceremony. Sir Julian with Hon, Michael Herbert and other attachés of the British Embassy, met Secretary Gresham at the State Department shortly before 3 o'clock, All the British representatives were in court uniform. The party proceeded to the White House, and at once went to the blue room. When the President en-

In raising her representative at Washing-In raising her representative at Washing-ton to the rank of Ambasador, Her Majesty manifested her constant desire to draw close together the bonds which hap-pily unite the two countries. It has been my privilege to serve Her Majesty for sev-eral years as Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, and I venture to tender my grateful acknowledgments for the courteous consideration and kindness which, during the whole of that period, has been extended to me in the discharge of my important functions.

to me in the discharge of my important functions.

In the higher office of Ambassador I hope the same indulgence may be accorded to me, and I beg to assure you that my utmost efforts will be devoted, as in the past, to the maintenance and improvement of the relations of friendship and good will which, I trust, will never cease to exist between the two countries. On the auspicious occasion of your being called upon once more to fill the exalted office of President of the United States, permit me, sir, to respectfully offer you my sincere wishes for your personal welfare, and for the continued prosperity of the great Nation whose mighty interests are committed to your charge.

In reply the President said:

In reply the President said:

Mr. Ambassador: It affords me sincere pleasure to receive from your hand the letter from Her Britannic Majesty accrediting you as her Ambassador to the United States of America. On behalf of our Government and the people, I desire to express the satisfaction with which we interpret the action of Her Majesty in conferring upon her representative at our capital the highest rank known to diplomatic intercourse between the nations as a marked proof of friendly consideration that tends to draw into the colosest amity two peoples, having common ties of blood, of speech and of history. The esteem you so deservedly won during your residence here as Minister Plenipotentiary, and the agreeable associations it has been the privilege of the officers of this Government to cultivate with you, furnish a pledge that lege of the officers of this Government to cultivate with you, furnish a pledge that in your new capacity you will in the future, no less than you have in the past, efficiently promote the important interests of the two countries, and I beg to assure you at all times that you will meet with our earnest cooperation toward strengthening and persentiating the mutual national friendship cooperation toward strengthening and per-peruating the mutual national friendship now happily existing. Desiring you to convey to Her Majesty, the Queen, in my name and in behalf of the people of the United States, our heartfelt wishes for Her Majesty's welfare and for the continued prosperity and peace of the British people, I offer to you my hearty personal con-graphications.

CHICAGO, April 11.—[By the Associated Press.] The bull clique in the wheat market was after big game today, and apparently bagged some of it. The famous plunger, Ed Pardridge, seemed to be the person aimed at, and he was unmercifully crowded. Pardridge was found to be sleek in responding to the calls for margins which the brokers showered upon him, and forthwith they bought in a lot of Pardridge's wheat. Pardridge sent to John Cudahy, the ostensible head of the bull clique, suing for a settlement. He was accorded one, on from two to three million bushels at 87 cents, it is said, which it is thought leaves Pardridge a poorer man by $750,000. But Parbridge is not yet secure. By Telegraph to The Times. SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—[By the Associated Press.] It transpired today that the amount of ex-Cashier Flood's defalcation from the Donohue-Kelly Bank is $164,000, and a sensation has thereby been created in financial circles. The bank officials had heretofore intimated that the cashier's shortage would not be over $25,000, but the facts were disclosed this afternoon when a suit was filed by the bank against Flood to recover $139,000. The complaint alleges that the defendant was cashier and agent of the bank, and while acting in that capacity be tween January 1, 1892, and April 14. 1893, he misappropriated $164,000, and has reimbursed the corporation only in $25,000. The plaintiff de mands judgment for the balance. Immediately upon filing the suit, the Sheriff issued a writ of attachment against Flood's house.

FLOOD ADMITS HIS GUILT. Flood savs the money was abstracted rom the bank in a lump sum, and that the shortage was not made up of a series of peculations, extending over a series of years, as had been supposed. Flood also confesses that the defalca-tion occurred since March 4, when the bank moved from the quarters it had occupied for years to the new and more pretentious location. But what he did with it and why he took it Flood absolutely refuses to state. He has been a man heretofore of upright life and rigid habits, and no theory that it was expended in dissipation, riotous living r gambling is tenable. Some think that it may have been wasted in specu-lation, but the bank officials do not consider it possible that so much money could have been used in that manner in so short a time.

When the theft was discovered last Tuesday by the State Bank Commission er Flood was called into the private office by President Donohue, and he immediately acknowledged his responsi-bility for the disappearance of the

REFUSED TO TELL WHERE IT HAD GONE. He did say, however, that he had paid it out over the counter in the usual manner to persons now out of the juris diction of the California courts. He would not divulge their identity, even under duress, but declared that the bank was, at liberty to hold him accountable and send him to prison. He cheerfully gave up property worth $25,000 in partial reparation. Flood had been with the bank for thirty years, twenty-five years teller and cashier, and possessed the respect and entire confidence of the directors and officers of the bank, and all others. The theory is advanced by some that he has voluntarily sacrificed his liberty and reputation to shield others. He suggested to President Donohue that he might make some disclosures before his death, which might be in a couple of days, seeming to imply his intention to commit suicide.

State Superintendent Anderson was allowed $20 for his services as secre-tary and the meeting adjourned until the second Tuesday in April, 1894, at Los Angeles.

THE LOS ANGELES SCHOOL.

The trustees of the Los Angeles school met at the Hotel Vendome in the afternoon. Most of the time was consumed in talking over the plans for a new building, which is to be erected at Los Angeles. The last Legislature gave the Los Angeles school an appropriation of $75,000 for an additional building. The principal, Ira More, sub-mitted a set of plans intended to convey a general idea of the building de-sired, and a discussion of its details of heating and ventilation was extensively pursued. It was finally decided to advertise for plans to be submitted within thirty days of the first publication of MORE'S RESIGNATION. The matter of real importance before the board was the election of a principal for the Los Angeles school, Ira More having resigned a year age, his resignation to take effect June 30 of the present year. The matter was called up, and Trustee Pomeroy said he wished, the incumber of said he he incumbe induced to withdraw his resignation and stay at the head of the school, at least until the projected new build-ing was completed. Principal More stated that he had presented his resignation in good faith. He said he he was no 64 years of age, and thought he had taught about as long as was profitable to the State and the cause of education, and was sincere in his wish to retire from active work. He said that though his health had been good and still was he could not tell when the break would come. By retiring from work before the break came he had a prospect of a number of years of life which he could enjoy, and he desired to take the course indicated by his resignation.

THE NEW PRINCIPAL.

This was accepted as final, and Trus tee Pomeroy presented the name of Melville Dozier, who is at present a teacher in the Normal at Los Angeles and ranked next to the principal there.
State Superintendent of Instruction Anderson presented the name of W. W. Anderson, principal of the Hopkins Academy at Oakland, He said he presented the name by request.

Trustee Lukens said Edwin T.
Pierce, principal of the Normal School at Chico was desirous of succeeding Principal More.

The secretary presented the application of E. R. Eldridge of Alabama. A ballot was taken, and Edwin Piero vas elected unanimously.

On motion of Superintendent Ander son a committee consisting of Trustees Mansfield, Pomeroy and Molyneaux was appointed to prepare rescutions expressing the respect and esteem held by the board for the retiring principal, Mr. More. NEW YORK, April 11.—[By the Associated Pres.] The shipments of gold today amounted to $3,500,000. Of this sum $3,420,000 was taken from the sub-treasury. No gold was received at the sub-treasury yesterday. The treasury statement yesterday showed a gold reserve of $106,310,656, against $106,247,516 on Saturday. The shipments of today will not show in the re port until Thursday, and by that time it is hoped considerable gold will have been received at the different sub treasuries. Notwithstanding the large shipments, the exchange rate remains firm. There is no prospect of the ship ments ceasing. Some of the hanker who are selling most of the exchange bills, about a month ago made careful calculations as to how much the shipments would probably amount to before summer. They figure that Europe will take from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 from this country. Since that time about $5,000,000 have been shipped ments would probably amount to befor and the bankers fully expect the ship-ments will go on until at least $25,-000,000 have gone out. A banker, in talking about the situation, states that taking about the situation, states that the Secretary of the Treasury would have difficulty in placing bonds to re-plenish the reserve now if he should try, for the bank deposits are not so large as they were two months ago. At that time, he said, an issue of bonds would nearly, or entirely, have stopped the shipments, because a good deal of gold was sent out by importers settling their foreign obligations, for fear gold would go at a premium, and foreign debts would have to be paid in a more expensive currency; but for this fear many foreign accounts would have been left unsettled and domestic ones now outstanding would have been balanced, because interest rates were easier on et icle 3. Which the Republican Senato Desire to Have Made Public-Amended Form.

WASHINGTON, April 11.-[By the Asso ciated Press. ] The text, or alleged text, of the extradition treaty signed by Secretary Bayard and De Struve, the Russian Minister in Washington, in 1887, but which failed of ratification by the Senate, principally because of the strong opposition raised to article 3, defining political offenses, was published here this morning, apparently with the view of eliciting expressions of public opinion. The same alleged text was published in some New York papers six years ago, and is be lieved to be accurate. Article 3 is the article which Republican Senators, it is said, now desire should be made public in parallel columns with the corre sponding article of the amended treaty which the Senate ratified at the last

The article in question, as sub mitted in 1887, was as follows:

Article 3. If it be made to appear that extradition is sought with a view to try or punish the person demanded for an offense of a political character, the surrender shall not take place, nor shall any person surrendered be tried or punished for any political offense committed previously to his extradition, nor for any offense other than that for which extradition is granted; nor shall the surrender of any person be demanded for any offense committed prior to the date at which this convention shall take effect. Murder or manslaughter, comprising the willful or negligent killing of a sovereign or chief magistrate of a State, or any member of his family, as well as an attempt to commit or participate in said crimes, shall not be considered an offense of a political character.

It is pointed out that the modification of article 3, as adopted in the treaty, mitted in 1887, was as follows:

of article 3, as adopted in the treaty which now awaits an exchange of rati as to political offenses against a soverign or chief magistrate, but makes no concessions in favor of Russia not recip-rocated in favor of the United States. The actual text of this part of the treaty, as it now stands, is as follows:

An attempt on the life of the head of can attempt on the inte of the head of either government, or against that of any member of his family, when such an attempt comprises the act either of murder or assassination or of poisoning, shall not be considered a political offense or the act connected with such offense.

Article 2 of the treaty of 1887 con-The crime of forgery, by which is under-stood the utterance of forged papers, and stood the utterance of forged papers, and also the counterfeiting of public, soverign or governmental acts.

It is understood this definition is retained in the amended treaty ratified by the Senate. Eaton, to whose public spirit and good taste Santa Barbara owes so much, presented a beautiful appearance today. The unfinished interior looked like an enchanted grotto, the rough redwood timbers being draped with gray tree-moss, which hung in graceful festoons from the beams, and palm leaves and bamboo appearing in relief against the rich tints of the redwood walls. Occasional clusters of pampas plumes give a sense of lightness to the decorations, and before the main entrance and in the rear of the hall large square spaces were vaulted with the pale pink draperies, starred with gilt, consisting of breadths of pale tinted stuffs caught at a common ceater with palm leaves and radiating to wires at the sides. In the center of the hall a square space was roofed in with date palm leaves, and beneath this stood Joseph Sexton's contribution to the floral exhibit, a large Moorish pagoda of exceedingly graceful design which of exceedingly graceful design, which occupied the center of the pavilion, between four great columns and their connecting arches hung with gray moss. The pagoda was rectangular, with an arch on either side, and terminated in a dome-shaped roof. It was draped in yellow, but this drapery was almost wholly concealed by a wreath almost wholly concealed by a wreath of callas, which covered the frame work from floor to pinnacle, the glossy green leaves only being brought ners and to suggest the divisions of the dome. The arches below were defined by small fan-palm leaves, flaring upon the yellow drapery, and a similar decoration flared over the yellow cornice.

The Fifth Ward exhibit was in many respects, the most notable among the displays of cultivated flowers.

Along the front of the stage there were pots of rare exotics, and below these a shelf covered with gray tree moss held a brilliant exhibit of cut

Two stands of choice and rare plants, entered by Charles Edwards, attracted much attention. Upon one was a Rhodiriza Florida, a very rare shrub of the genus convolvulus, from the island Teneriffe, in the Canary Isles. This is the popular funeral flower of the Guanches, the aboriginal tribe of the Guanches, the aboriginal tribe of the island. The Nandina, one of the sacred plants of Japan, was among these plants, and three species of Crimems attracted much attention on account their beauty. Upon the other stand was a choice collection of Ixias, bego-nias, bouvardius. A water bouquet of nias, bouvardius. A water bouquet of delicate flowers, under a bell glass, made by Mrs. G. J. C. Oliver, interested all who saw it. A very perfect representation of the parish church-bells appeared in this ooth, one of the upper bells being of white roses, with a cross of scarlet geraniums on the side, the others of pink roses, with a cross of white hyacinths. From the white bell hung a rope of bridal wreath, and from the pink rope one of hyacinths. The lower beli was of pale yellow roses, with a cross of streptosalem. The cracked bell, which lies upon an old bench at the parish church, was wrought of Caroline Custer roses, with a clapper of yellow, and laid upon a bench of white roses. The frame from which the bells hung was covered with gray moss.

The ladies of the Second Ward concentrated their energies in portraying a section of the Boulevard. This was a section of the Boulevard. This was wrought in wild hyacinths, bordered with sweet alvssum, with rails of smilax, the little garden and band stand being outlined in flowers. The beach and ocean were represented in canvas and sand, and a painting of the ocean, roughly executed, formed the back-ground. The exhibit was roped in, in pagoda form, thatched with fan palm leaves, with columns of roses and gray moss, and garlands of ivy and pilar-goniums, one of the sides being partiy fenced with white marguerites. A fringe of wisteria formed the cornice, and the ward and number were of mariand the ward and number were of marigolds. The Fourth Ward booth represented a Japanese tea garden, and its most conspicuous feature was a Japanese pagoda, roofed with palm leaves and banked with callas and ferns below, the arches being garlanded with roses. Large paper lanterns hung from the arches, and refreshments were served inside for the benefit of the public library. The rear wall of the booth was covered with palm leaves, decorated with orange flowers. A pyramid of roses and other choice garden flowers were in the center of the booth, hananas in fruit were at one side, a living date palm rose in the background and English ivy vines, centering upon a great Japanese umbrella in the center above, formed a roof of green.

The "East Side" of Santa Barbara had a danty exhibit in place consists.

had a dainty exhibit in place, consist-ing of a recess roofed with palms and heavily decorated with flowers.

There was a bell of wild hyacinths and ferns, with a clapper of gay geraniums, hung from the roof, and a live, talking parrot added to the attractions of the booth.

Mrs. Magee, assisted by Miss Doulton and Miss Nickerson, arranged what may be unquestionably voted as the most unique and the quaintest exhibit in the entire pavilion. This was a rep-rentation of old Montecito, and gave a birdseye view of the beautiful valley in the time of the early Spanish occu-pancy. The booth devoted to this ex-hibit was about twenty-five feet square, and was about twenty-nive feet square, and was literally walled in with oak foliage, ferns, mosses and other growths characteristic of Montecito Valley. Upon a mimic hill, built up of earth in the foreground was a small adobe house. An old Spanish woman in her black shawl, sitting beside the door, and little children in vivid colors, so popular tle children in vivid colors, so popula with the race, playing about her. Un der a brush shelter at one side a lavan dera brush shelter at one side a lavandera was bent over her wash board,

The inscription above this booth, "Old Montecito, 1893," was artistically wrought in dull red peppers upon a dark ground. Against the mosstrimmed column in front hung a pair of rusty spurs, to which were attached a card telling that they had belonged to Maria Dominguez, the man who built the first house in Montecito, and were more than a century old.

The western alcove next the stage comprised individual exhibits, among which is a very choice collection from Dr. F. S. Gould's lovely home in Monte-cito. His specimens of the leucordendron argenteum were a fascinating sight, so like leaves cut from silver-gray satin; the cones on the branches are very conspicuous, and his tree is the only one in this part of the State old enough to produce them. Dr. Yates had a lovely collection of exotic ferns gathered from various parts of the world. Many of the plants were sent to him by botanical friends while he was writing his book "All Known Ferns." His plant of platycerium grande is a very large one and much admired. Commonly speaking it is called stag-horn fern. Among the most Japonica, a rare Japan fern, and one that does remark-ably well in lath-house ferneries here in California. He also mingled among his ferns some rare small palms from Our native California shrubs have so often been spoken of that no detailed description need be given. Every one loves our heteromebs arbutifolia the toyon of the Spanish-speaking people, and our Christmas holly, the wild otherry. Prun illicifolia is one of our grandest decorative plants; it is just now between flower and seeding time. but its waxen foliage is always fresh and beautiful. The native ferns are not so well represented, as they were not in good growth. Both shrubs and ferns did not appear at their best, ow-ing to the high wind prevailing while they were being brought in from their haunts in sheltered nooks of the mountains. They were all gathered from Mt. Ceanothus by Mrs. Child, who delights in such picturesque mountain plants, and designs adding to the na-tive plants instead of cutting and burning off such as are here.

The wild flowers were splendidly arranged by the Misses Jennings, who deserve great credit for their labor. These were finely arranged, and the native ferns are mostly on bits of rock from the bosom of nature.

Mrs. N. K. Wade of Montecito had a special exhibit of flowers from her gar-den, including Dutch bulbs, naunculus and anemones, in great variety

There were also forty varieties of roses in this display, including some fine specimens of Mile. Cécile Bruner, Catherine Mermet, the Viscountess of Folkestone, and a very striking, long-stemmed, pale crimson rose, with curl-ing petals fading at the center, the origin and identity of which is unknown, and which has been appropriately called La Incognita. The walls and tables of this booth were draped with ferns

Summerland's modest exhibit occu-pied a small booth near the main entrance, and presented a wealth of flowers of all kinds, arranged in banks and baskets and various emplematic designs. Upon a banner of gray moss the name "Summerland" was wrought in geranium blossoms, framed with guerites. A gigantic calla-lily plant, with enormous leaves and laden with buds and flowers, was taken up entire, and stood beside the booth. The Raymond nurseries of East Pasadena contributed a magnificent exhibit of carnations, which were arranged in large shallow baskets near the center of The carnations were of rich and varied colors, and made all the air about them fragrant. These beautiful about them regrant. These obsulting flowers probably attracted more attention than any other exhibit in the pavilion, for almost every one was drawn to them by the power of old associations.

Mr. Parma of Montecito had on exhibition a fine display of citrus fruits.

Mrs. N. K. Wade, I. B. Pierce and C. Tinker, also exhibited choice specimens. Tinker also exhibited choice specimens of citrus fruit, and Mrs. Wade also hibited some ripe toquats, the firs

The dining-room attached to the Pavilion was decorated with palm leaves, and the ceiling was brightened by red draperies, the long breadths extending from the center to the sides, and made gay with gilt paper decorations.

As your correspondent predicted, the town is already crowded almost to its utmost capacity, and people are wan-dering hither and thither looking for shelter. The Arlington was filled on Monday and the other hetels are already overtaxed, but the Reception Committee is diligently at work provid-ing quarters for those who arrive, and nobody will be permitted to go without a roof to cover him.

Many of the most notable people of the State, and indeed of the United States, are here. John Wanamaker and party arrived Monday; Herman Celrichs and wife (née Miss Fair) are at the Arlington; Dr. Stoddard of the New York Observer is also here, and New York Observer is also nere, and Victor Lawson, just now the most prominent newspaper man in America, is hourly expected. Among other notable society people at the same hotel are Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Honore of Chicago, Fred Grant's wife's parents. W. I. Goad of San Francisco and three Misses Goad, Dr. William J. Younger, Mrs. J. O. B. Gunn, Miss McKune. Mrs. John W. Coleman, Miss Coleman and H.

L. Coleman are a few notable in San Francisco society who are here.

A. B. Henderson, for many years managing editor of the San Francisco Examiner, was expected on Tuesday afternoon's train. Mr. Henderson is taking his regular annual vacation, and, afternoon's train. Mr. Henderson is taking his regular annual vacation, and, accompanied by his wife, intends to enjoy Santa Barbara's floral carnival. He will add one more to the brilliant coterie of visiting journalists.

A BAD FORTY-FIVE MINUTES. How a Northern Private Was Kept In a Ticklish Position. A private in the Seventy-fifth New York regiment during the war was one Schermer-horn, whom everybody called "Skimmy" for short, and of whom Mr. George Sey mour of this city tells the following story: Skimmy enlisted under the impression that the country would not require his services longer than two or three months, and the trip to the front assumed the aspect of an excursion or picnic to him. The regiment fought its way down into Louisiana, and one day the boys found themselves near Brashear. About two dozen of them were deployed as sharpshooters, and as the enemy was acting very lively the sharpshooters scattered out to find the best positions.

shooters scattered out to find the best posi shooters scattered out to find the best posi-tions for effective work.

After an hour's quiet blazing away at the Confederates Seymour started for a spot some distance on his left, which appeared to offer better advantages for his line of business. On the way through a piece of woods he was joined by two of his com-rades, who proposed to go with him. The trio were just nearing the opening when they saw a short distance away their com-rade Skimmy sitting bolt upright in the crotch of a rail fence without his gun, and Coming on the reacal from the rear, they put a stop to his fun by making him a prisoner.

Skimmy climbed down from his perchand delivered a few connect remarks. Said

Skimmy climbed down from his perch and delivered a few earnest remarks. Said he: "Boys, I've always allowed I could lick any four rebels that run agin me, but I want to count that little whiffet out of the crowd. Why, the durned little cuss has kept me settin in that crotch for three-quarters of an hour, and I'll bet 500 bullets have passed me in that 'time. I've lost a finger and there's a furrow plowed along one side of my head. If we take him to camp, I'll never hear the last of it. Let him skip and keep it to ourselves."

The prisoner was released, and the story never got to the ears of the commanding

A Great Controversy.

A great controversy has been agitating the Milan Philological society concerning the admission of women. One great and famous doctor, a leader of the opposition to women, confeened that women members in the society would be scarcerows to all ma ture and studious men who seek to be far from the world and its distractions, while — young men their presence would be per-ilously attractive.—Exchange.

AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.-Robin Hood PARK THEATER-Bit o' Blarney.

THE walking delegates of Chicago, who were responsible for the strike, did not relish the idea of running up against the conspiracy laws of the coun try as upheld by recent decisions. The vindication of American principles is already bearing good fruit.

THE Council has done a good thing in referring to the Gas and Light Committee the question of having an expert test made of the electric lights furnished the city. It is generally under stood among electricians that the lights fall far short of the candle-power named in the contract. If the lights are good enough, then the contract ought to be amended so that it will not be a dead letter. In any event, we ought to find out just how we stand on the light question.

THE city of Pomona is to be congratulated on having come out of its fanatical kinks on the prohibition question, as it did by its vote of last Monday. THE TIMES is in favor of all sensible and justifiable reforms, and is most decidedly in favor of temperance; but' we cannot see the utility of riding Quixotic tilts at windmills in the hope of forcing men to do right. A policy of highlicense and strict regulation of the liquor traffic is the only one that can accom plish reforms in the drinking habit without taking away the rights of the individual and bringing him to the level of a mere serf. Pomona has adopted the progressive middle course, and will be better governed and more prosperous under the new régime.

The policy of no discrimination between employés, whether they belong r organizations or not, is one so out that the managers of the World's Fair were on impregnable ground when they announced it. The sentiment appeals to the sense of fairness of the whole country. The insolent attempt to "unionize" the World's Fair has been a failure, and similar attempts are down for failure everywhere. time is coming when the labor agitators will bitterly regret having inarbitrary discrimination on the ground of trade affiliation. Nothing makes them protest more loudly than discrimination against men who belong to their organization, and yet they are ever ready to invoke such discrimination against men who are not members. When the sentiment of the country shall have become so thoroughly aroused that men who belong to strik ing and boycotting organizations cannot btain employment in great industries. the walking delegate and professional agitator will be no more.

As a political and business center there is no question but Los Angeles holds the supremacy. Successful conventions to promote political and commercial enterprises and citrus fairs have long been recognized as having their natural home in Los Angeles. Equally it is true of the religious interests of the six southern counties, that here the leading denominations find the most convenient place for holding their meetings. In illustration of this we have only to cite the fact that the Presbytery of Los Angeles assembles here compel it to prosecute a losing busifor the second time in two years. This Important body of the Presbyterian pany which quits should step down and nrch in California commenced its sessions last evening in the First Presbyterian Church by a sermon from Rev. R. H. Hartley of Riverside: The sessions in the First Presbyterian Church will continue until Thursday afternoon. Perhaps the most popular and interesting session will be held this (Wednes-day) evening, when the Rev. Dr. Stewart of Pasadena will deliver a discourse entitled, "An Orthodox Man's View of he Situation." There is no man in the porations altogether. In any event, tate that surpasses Dr. Stewart in inality, and when he handles a subhe is thoroughly in earnest. The in preference to private gain. ms recent agitations in the Presterian Church, and, among which, ing above them all, is the Briggs ersy, will doubtless be brought to the front in Dr. Stewart's own petyle, which is known to be at

THE speedy collapse of the strike at the World's Fair shows what bad generalship the leaders of "organized labor" were guilty of when they precipitated it. As we stated yesterday, the people of the United States are in no mood to be tampered with by walking delegates on the success of this great enterprise. Undoubtedly the artisans engaged in the construction of the World's Fair buildings have been well paid. They accepted employment under conditions that have not been materially changed up to the present time. For them to seize upon a critical time like the present, when there is every necessity for hastening the work, and threaten an irreparable delay unless new demands formulated by themselves are complied with, is like levying blackmail-is like demanding a price for a man's life. It is well that these unprincipled agitators have received a sudden and peremptory set-back. The lesson will have great value to the whole country. It helps to show that The Regulation of Street Railways. the professional striker has struck The proposition before the Council, twelve o'clock, and his scheme is now following the suggestion of THE TIMES, running down. that in future street railway franchises be granted only on condition that Ar the meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening, a "swap" was effected with Llewellyn Bros., the board conveying to them the school premises of the Railroad street school and $200 to boot for a lot adjoining the Ann street school. It is understood that the city parts with a much larger piece of land than it receives, convevs a building with it, and pays a bonus besides. Mrs. Hughes naively said that when this proposition came before the former Board of Education it was called a "steal." But this did not feaze the "solid six," and they voted the proposition through in one time and three motions. The political ring in the Board of Education is beginning to get in its work in a practical way. We have given warning of what the city may expect, and now the expected is happening. Before the terms of the present manipulators expire we may look for the consummation of many jobs that will be denominated in the usual coarse and brutal manner as "steals." - But the men who are responsible for this state of affairs are digging their political graves.

THE enterprising policy adopted by Arizona is well illustrated by the proposal of negotiations with Mexico to secure harbor facilities at Pincate Bay, at the head of the Gulf of California. It would undoubtedly contribute largely to the prosperity of the Territory to thus secure a direct outlet to the ocean. While Los Angeles aspires to be the commercial entrepôt of Arizona on the Pacific, we see no call for the manifestation of a mean or selfish spirit toward this effort of the Territory to cure her own port. We have hithprosperity enough in store for all. and a greater measure is to be secured by a general policy of development than for one section to try to hold back another. Let Arizona establish a competitive port at the head of the gulf, i possible, and we venture the opinion that the business of our California ports will be stimulated thereby. Competi-tion is the life of trade, and the greatest drawback of the Pacific Coast thus far has been that it has failed to get its just share of competition.

COL CORBIN'S BEREAVEMENT.

Death of His Foungest Daughter at Washington.

The many friends of Col. Henry C. Corbin, for some months stationed in this city as Adjutant-General of the De partment of Arizona, will regret to learn of the death of his youngest daughter, who died at Washington April 2. A special Washington dispatch of April 3 gives the following particulars: Col. Henry Corbin and his wife left Washington tonight for Wilmington, O. with the remains of their youngest daughter, Rebecca, who died daughter, Reoecca, who died at her father's residence here last night, after a lingering illness. It has often been wondered what had become of the crucitix used by the Abbe Edgeworth at the execution of Louis Edgeworth at the execution of Louis XVI. Our Paris correspondent says it is now in the possession of the parish priest at St. Medard de Guisiere, to whom it was given by one of his flock, a Mme. d'Espilat, when she was dying. She enjoined him never to part with it because it was a racred relic, and she expected that Louis the Martyr would one day figure in the calendar of the church along with his ancestor, St. The crucifix, with the Christ of t, is in old carved ivory, and was probably made at Dieppe.

About All the Relics and Things Sent to the Big Fair.

The President and the California Delega tion and Office-seekers Some Fake Reports-"Our Steve" Not Mad on the Outside.

Special Correspondence of The Times

WASHINGTON, April 8 .- Californians who go to the World's Fair next summer will look anxiously, but in vain, for two of the oldest and most important public documents ever connected with the history of the United States. They are the Declaration of Independence, with the bold signature of John Hancock and all the other good men who subscribed to it, and the Constitution of the United States. These old documents, before whose presence visitors stand with uncovered heads and a feeling almost of veneration, as at the tomb of George and Martha Washington, are kept under lock and key in the State Department, where visitors may look through a glass covering as friends do upon the remains of a dear one who had been called from their midst. It has been arranged their midst. It has been arranged to take these two precious docu-ments to the exposition, where all the world could see them, but the programme has been changed at the last moment before they were to be shipped, and the official flat has gone forth that they are not to be taken from their present location. Naturally the parchment on which they were many years ago has grown brittle with age, and it was feared that some unforeseen accident might occur, either in the packing, transmission or mapacking, that might either destroy or injure the valuable old documents; or that some crank at the fair might seek to either steal or destroy them. They are too precious to be either lost orinjured, and so it has been thought best by the and so it has been thought best by the powers that be that they should remain where they are.

The two articles named are, however, almost, if not quite, all the articles, relics and curiosities that Government officials have been all these 400 years in gathering in every department, that have not been, or within a few days he, shipped to not within a few days be, shipped to Chicago for the edification, amuse-ment and enlightenment of the millions who will be there from all the world over. Carload after carload has gone, until every department of the Go ment is as bare and empty of valuable exhibits as an ordinary contribution box is of $5 bills.

Those who visit the National Capital at any time during the next eight months will therefore find very little of interest. It is true that Mt. Vernon, sixteen miles down the Potomac River, is undisturbed, while neither the Washis undisturbed, while neither the Washington monument, the Capitol, White House nor any of the Government buildings have been taken to Chicago; but the largest part of the contents of many of them is either there or, will be in a few days.

Referring to Mt. Vernon and the monment reminds the TIMES corresponden of a most surprising statement made to him a few days ago by a prominent and well-known citizen of this city. He is a man in the prime of life, has an elegant home and all needful comforts, is thoroughly conversant with all public matters of interest, has a wide acquaint-ance with the public men of the day, and has been a resident of the Capital City for a dozen years. He said: "It may seem strange, but I have never yet visited Mt. Vernon, nor been up in the Washington monument." It does, in-deed, seem strange that, while one person will travel for days and weeks and spend hundreds of dollars to visit these historical places, another will not take advantage of the privileges that are to be had without any particular ontlay of time or money.

The statement made by that gentlemay is only equated in its strangeness by one made on the floor of the House by Congressman Bland of Missouri. Mr. Bland, or "Silver-dollar Dick." as he is called by his Intimates, was born in Kentucky, removed to Misouri when 20 years old, thence to Cal ifornia, thence to that portion of Utah Territory that is now Nevada, and back to Lebanon, Mo., in 1865, where he has since lived. He has been for twenty years in Congress, and has just entered upon his eleventh continuous term. When charged a few weeks ago, in a Chicago newspaper, with having been one of the party of Congressmen who was taken to that city by the World's Fair management and "subsidized" by free rides and dinners, he rose in his place in Congress and said: "Mr. Speaker, that statement could not be true of me, for I was never in Chicago."

And yet Mr. Bland has repeatedly made the trip between St. Louis and Washington, year after year, for all these twenty long years.

The Washington correspondent of a Western paper recently sent this dispatch to his paper:

tch to his paper:
"The President is sending all the promising candidates home, for he is in no hurry to make appointments not im-mediately required by the public needs. He sent the entire California delega-tion home vesterday with the statement that he would pay no attention to them as a delegation, and that when he wanted any recommendations of candi-dates he would send for them. Two members of the delegation got very an-gry at this, and undoubtedly prejudiced their cases by somewhat Ill-considered remarks. Congressman Geary kept his temper, and as he left the room the President smiled encouragingly upon He sent the entire California, delega President smiled encouragingly upon him. Now the other memoers of the delegation are sure Geary will get everything."

everything."

This reads all right, and might indicate that a family row is on between the President and members of the California delegation, but the midst remarkable fact about the dispatch is that it was not true, and had no foundation in fact. When the Times correspondent called Congressman Caminettl's attention to the dispatch, he said!

"That's a fake, pure and simple, and tion to the dispatch, he said:

"That's a fake, pure and simple, and this is the first time I ever beard of any such an absurd proposition. The incident, as related, never happened, for Senator White and Congressman Maguire, the only others of the delegation then here, are the last men who would get angry, or show it if they did."

If President Cleveland continues to make exceptions to those who are now

If President Cleveland continues to make exceptions to those who are now eligible for appointment to omice, he will very soon be obliged to go outside of the Democratic party for available timber; in fact, he has several times gone outside already. It is indeed, a queer spectacle that it has been so soon discovered that the supply of Damocratic eligibles is nearly or quite exhausted, in the President's estimation. Having ruled out those who served him faithfully before, those who are not willing to devote their entire time and attention to the offices, personal friends distant relatives and machine politi clans, he now piles on the feather that is to break the camel's back, by adding to the list of ineligibles all those who worked for his renomination. Every Democrat professes to have been an original Cleveland man from way back, and so this latest Presidential pronunciamento is bound to send Mr. Cleve-land to the Populist or Prohibition party for his men, or else force him to PHENIX (Ariz.,) April 10 .- The long and bitter fight over moving the capital is now settled, and the measure is indefinitely postponed by motion of its champion.

The measure proposed to fix a per manent location for the Territoria The for the Territorial capital in any town or city in Arizona that would donate $50,000 and ten acres of land, giving Phœnix the option until June 1, 1893. Wright of Cochise was the champion of the bill, and fought at first against odds, but was vigorously opposed by the Maricopa delegation, led by Hurley, and also by Hunt of Gita. Hunt being chairman of the Printing Committee to which it had been referred owing to his position, was comferred, owing to his position, was compelled to stand the brunt of battle and, but for his being absent with the bill in his pocket, it would have passed the first time it came to an issue. requisition, however, was placed in the hands of the Sergeant-at-Arms, with directions to bring Huntin; but he had left the city, and, upon recommendation, they decided to lay it over one day. Hunt appeared next morning, but said he had not the bill. He produced the printer's receipt, but said it had not returned. A special committee was called to investigate, and the printer swore he left it on Hunt's desk. Just who took it was not apparent, and a printed bill was substituted, and, after a stormy scene, another day was secured. In the meantime the Maricopa delegation traded, thereby securing enough votes to defeat the measure by promising to locate the reformatory at Flagstaff, and they then assumed the aggressive, trying to force a ballot. Wright in the meantime offered to make a motion for indefinite postponement, but this they would not allow. Wright then moved to table for one day, which passed. In the afternoon session, a compromise having been effected, and the bill have ing served its purpose by securing Smith's vote in the Council for a measure he opposed, Wright was finally allowed to have his way and moved indefinite postponement, which carried. The question now seems forever set tled that Phœnix will be the capital.

COLORED RAIN-THE REASON. Specially Contributed to The Times.

There have been traditions for centuries of miraculous rains of blood, stones animals and fishes, but even in this nineteenth century we are constantly hearing of red and black rain, only now adays science has held up the glass and analysis, and told us the reason why.

The first memorable example of red rain fell in the Hague in 1670 People awoke in the morning to find that the streams had seemingly all turned to blood and the miraculous fluid was still falling from the skies. High and low dropped upon their knees praying, thinking that a plague had come upon them.
But there happened to be a scientific man with a small microscope, even then. He took some of the red water then. He took some of the red water and examined it, and found that in-sstead of its being a warning sent by providence to fortell war and blood-shed, it was colored by minute red insects.

The man with the microscope told his discovery all over Holland, but when the war came, by which Louis XIV de vastated the country, there were many who believed that the "red rain" had been sent as a "warning." The red insect was a sort of water flea, known to science as Pulices arbor escents.

THE CALABRIAN STORM. On the 14th of March, 1813, the inhabitants of Gerace, Calabria, per-ceived a terrific cloud advancing from the sea with a violent wind. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon this cloud changed to a fiery red, and totally intercepted the light of the sun. The town was enveloped in darkness and people rushed to the cathedral, think-ing the end of the world had come.

The flery red cloud increased in in-tensity, thunder pealed, and, with vivid flashes of lightning, sheets of red rain fell, which the inhabitants took to be fire or blood. The rain finally grew lighter and ceased, having done no harm to anything.

Colored rain of a similar character to the Calabrian downpour, which has since fallen, has been proven to contain a red dust, which, when heater changed to brown, and then to black. In it could be discovered small particles of mica. An analysis proved that the dust consisted of silica, alumina, lime, carbonic acid and oxide of iron.

It is probable that in all these cases it had been blown from some active volcano, cartied a distance through the upper air and finally descended the fall of rain.

THE PIEDMONT RAIN

A similar rain, or rather deposit of dust, as it was not even wet, took place in the valley of Oneglia, Piedmont, during the night of the 27th of October, 1814. It covered the leaves and the grass, and where it mingled with the dew made what seemed to be blood stains, a phenomenon which caused great excitement among the peasantry.
The blue rain has been found by analysis to be caused by a deposit of cobalt. Sometimes the colored rains are tinted by the seeds of plants, which have bee caught floating in the atmosphere. BLACK RAINS.

On November 9, 1819, a black rain fell at Montreal, Canada. Some of the liquid was collected, and sent to New York for analysis. It was found that the water was colored by soot. Owing to the dryness of the season an immense conflagration of some large forests, situated south of the Ohio River, had taken place; the wind, blow-ing steadily north for some time, had conveyed these sooty particles into Lower Canada. At Birmingham, En-Lower Canada. At Birmingham, gland, in May, 1866, at 11 in the n ng, the town was enveloped in dark ness. SAN FRANCISCO, April 10, 1893. - San Francisco, calmly confident of supremacy by reason of supposed natural location for a trade center, sat supinely by while railroad connections with the East took away her trade with Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Arizona, New Mexco and even the southern half of her own State. She, trusting to the same theory of location advantage, let things slide as they would, not having sense enough to utter a feeble protest. By reason of high rates the trade of South ern Idaho and Utah was driven eastwardly, and even the local Coast trade has diminished to next to nothing by reason of water rates being kept up by the aid of railroad subsidies. She act ively aided in shutting down hydraulic mining, the only resource left her, and now, that her back is broken, she howls and roars with pain, and, being reduced to the last extremity, her people are living off each other "dog-eat-dog" like, and still she sits a plucked goose calmly awaiting for the revival, which she sees in the natural locality and nat ural advantages the Supreme Being so kindly gave her. Had we a little enterprise, such as Los Angeles has shown, it would not be twenty-four hours before our moneyed men would size up the situation and take steps to establish competing steamers north and south from San Diego to Puget Sound. An overland railroad would be begun in earnest. Electric lines for passenger and freight traffic between this city and the fertile interior would be organized. Our adjocent navigable streams would be improved to permit of steamboat competition. Our one railroad would be made amenable to the law, its agreements would be carried out, and last, but not least, steps for the resumption of hy draulic mining would not be neglected But this is not Los Angeles or Chicago so none of these things will be done but, Micawber-like, we will wait for our natural trade center to assert its rights, and if in some future time we fine out "who struck Billy Patterson" we may come to a realizing sense of "what struck us." THE SAVINGS BANK IDEA.

The Public is Pleased With It, Especially When, a few weeks ago, The Times announced that it would supply that great reference library, the Encyclope dia Britannica, to its readers at less than one-quarter the price of the En-glish edition, payments to be made at the rate of 10 cents a day, if desired, and then throw in a self-registering and then throw in a self-registering dime savings bank in which to drop the dime each day, the readers of the paper in the true spirit of enterprise saw it was a good thing. They took the offer up, and from that day the reading-rooms at No. 347 South Spring street have been filled with people eager to investigate such an unusual proposition.

The dime savings bank given to each subscriber to the Encyclopedia nearly caused trouble in the family of a gentleman who bought a set a few days ago.

He paid for the entire set and was handed a bank. 'I don't need it," he said, "but I'll take it home to the children.'

The next morning he came into the reading-rooms at No. 347 South Spring street ill you sell me four of the banks?" he inquired. "You see I took home the one you gave me and then there was trouble. I have four children, and every blessed one wants a bank—and my wife, too. Let me have four. I'll place the five of them on the He received the banks, and as wall." he left he was heard to chuckle: "Reckon I can squeeze 10 cents a day out of five salary eaters."

It is astonishing how pleased people are with the savings bank idea. They are with the savings bank idea. They take it as much for a reminder as for a depositary for the dimes that are to pay for the Encyclopedia. They realize that it is an easy, pleasant and practicable plan for securing something which will constantly grow in value as

After the close of the sermon the election of a moderator was in order and a member, in a brief speech, placed the name of Rev. Mr. Merwin of Pasadena in nomination. #### THE CITY DEMOCRACY.

Meeting of the Central Committee Last The Democratic City Central Com mittee held a meeting at Y.M.I. Hall last night. The roll-call, however, showed only a limited attendance pres ent. Quite a discussion arose in regard to allowing reporters to be present, the chairman, J. Marion Brooks, and a few others saying they saw no objection to the newspapers publishing the proceedings of the meeting. One member mentioned the fact that the Herald had printed a garbled account of the last meeting, and therefore he objected to any further publicity. Another member of the committee named Price, who occuof the committee named Price, who become of the committee named Price, who become a person at this, presumably became angered at this, and petulantly insisted that no newspand petulantly insisted that no newspand petulantly himself be allowed to reper man but himself be allowed to re-main. The committee then went into executive session. The report of the Advisory Commit-tee, appointed at a previous meeting, was read and evoked much comment. It was stated that Street Superintendent Watson was favoring Republicans in his appointments and leaving the faithful in the cold. A formal demand will be made on Mr. Watson to reward those who helped to elect him.

City Engineer Dockweller's office also came in for its share of discussion, but it was shown that in only one or two instances had the City Engineer, of his own violition, favored Republicans at the expense of his own party. Before the meeting adjourned it was also de-cided to make a formal demand on the cided to make a formal demand on the Police Commission, Health Board and Fire Department, all of which are claimed to be non-partisan, for a fairer "division of the spoils."

Assemblyman Anderson in the City.

Maj. A. W. Anderson, member of the Assembly from Sacramento, arrived in the city yesterday morning, and put in visiting the public buildings the day and other points of interest. This is Maj. Anderson's first visit to Los Angeles since the Republican State Convention in 1886, to which body he was a delegate. He was surprised at the great improvement which has taken place, and says that he would not have known the city. He was especially pleased with the new Courthouse and City Hall, which, he says, are the City Hall, which, he says, are the finest he has ever seen. Maj. Anderson is one of the oldest residents of Sacramento, having crossed the plains in 1847, and has kept up with the development of the country north of the Tehachepi, but had no idea that an empire had grown up in the southern part of the State. In addition to his law practice, Maj. Anderson conducts a literary Maj. Anderson conducts a literary paper, Themas, as a diversion, and has always taken a lively interest in politics, but will now devote himself to his legal business. After taking in Los Angeles, Maj. Anderson, who is accom-panied by his wife, will visit San Diego and the Hotel Coronado.

Facts for Taxpayers. URDENS THAT ARE GRIEVOUS TO BE BORNE. LOS ANGELES, April 11.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] "A Toller" thanks you for the favor of a word, but regrets that there has been no response to his inquiry as to the how and why the fund for the aged and dying poor was depleted in the sum of $3446.79; and he desires you will now say for him that in his opinion it was a steal simple and pure, and that the Supervisors who permitted it are gullty of criminal negligence in the failure to prevent it. I have done a little more reading of the Auditor's report for 1892, and will thank you to give to your readers a few more items of the tax burdens that are consuming their earnings.

your readers a few more items of the tax burdens that are consuming their earnings. I find the county debt to be $1,011,000; and outstanding bonds of the various school districts $340,750; to which I will add the city debt of $1,359,300; a total of $2,711,050, resting upon the homesof this people, and imposing an interest burden of $189,773.50 annually: I figure interest at their control of the bonds. $189,773.50 annually. I figure interest at 7 per cent. Some portion of the bonds bear 8 per cent. But this is a small portion of the annual burden we are compelled to bear, for the total pay-out, as shown by the Auditor, is the princely sum of $1,757,644.85. There are many items of the pay-out additional to the interest above, which the taxpayers should familiarize themselves with. Here are a few of them.

An attaché of the Courthouse spoke of it and its filling as "an expensive luxury" and I think the taxpayer will agree with him, and he will wonder with your correspondent if the new Supervisors have the courage and the honesty to redeem their promises to the people, and cut down the enormous out.go and lop off entirely some of the unnecessary expenditures that are eating up the homes of the people. I observe they have made a beginning, and let us hope that their little work is the few drops before the more plentiful shower.

"The Republican party and its Opportunities." If the Republican party should put a plank in its platform embodying the demand for Government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines and return to bimetallism, those members of the party, myself included, who at the last election voted the People's party ticket, would return to the fold, and thereby give the party again control of the Government. A Magnificent Display of the Flora of Southern California.

Elaborate and Tasteful Decorations of the Various Booths.

Some of the More Striking Exhibits—An Attractive Musical and Literary Committees in Charge.

Up to 1890 it had been the custom to hold an annual flower testival in Los Angeles, but for the past three years no attempt has been made to arrange a general display in this city of the beau-tiful flora of Southern California. The fact has been deplored by many, but no one has seemed to have the enterprise to go ahead and make such an exhibit since the ladies of the Flower Festival Society gave it up, until this year, when the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., led by their energetic president, Mrs. J. B. Brown, took the matter up. The success of their undertaking can best be judged by a visit to the Y.M.C.A. building on Broadway, where the Carnival of Flowers opened last night. Although not on so large a scale as former flower festivals, this one is a gem in its way, and will doubtless be viewed by thousands of admiring eyes during the week.

The entrance to the auditorium is through the reading room. From the center of the ceiling garlands of green fall pagoda-shaped giving a pretty, arbor-like effect. Suspended from the center is the Y.M.C. A. emblem—the triangle, with the motto, "Spirit, body, mind," worked out in red, white and orange on the three respective sides. Electric lights in corresponding colors flash from the interior of this triple triangle. Immediately below is a triangular booth of roses in all the tints and shades known to the California queen of flowers. BASEBALL.

Departure of the Angels for the North-Field Notes.

The Angels left for the North on the 2 p.m. train yesterday. They play their first game in San Francisco with Uncle's team this afternoon.

The Southern League opened its season last Monday. The following cities are members: Chattanooga, Nash-ville, Memphis, New Orleans, Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, Atlanta, Mason, Augusta, Savannah and Charleston. The season will close September 27.

The San Francisco Chronicle admits that the Colonel has a team of hitters this season. Hereabouts it was thought, until last week, that Uncle Henry Har-ris possessed the only team of genuine heavy hitters in the league. The Chronicle also has this to say of the Colonel's crack first baseman:

"Howard Earl, the elongated first baseman of the Oaklands, is said to be the only man in the team who can sit with his legs crossed and let the soles of both feet touch the floor at the same or both reet touch the noor at the same time. However this may be Earl is quite popular already, having completely won the cranks by his length of reach and clever exposition of the art of playing baseball. It may increase the public interest in Mr. Earl somewhat to know that the young man carries the diploma of a surgeon—a veter rise the diploma of a surgeon—a veter. ries the diploma of a surgeon-a veter ries the diploma or a surgeon—a veter-inary surgeon. He is a graduate from a New York college, where the mechan-ism of the horse is made a special study, and is said to be high anthority on heaves, windgall, bone spavin, poll-evil and charley horses. His greatest success has been in the treatment of Capt. Glenalvin, before leaving yesterday, promised to win a majority of the games from the Colonel. Regarding Uncle and Duke Finn, Glen says the Angels will come mighty near winning every game from the two tail-enders.

TMPROVEMENT of a high order has been going on in the big Cloak Department this week. You will find some new faces-an improvement for the better. You will see another lot of new goods. Things have been twisted and turned around, and all this has been for your advantage. New-energy of a higher order, new goods of the better class; new ways have been inaugurated to improve the service, and every change is for a betterment or it would not take place. Now visit the Cloak Department; you will note an improvement at once. Service in this house must be the best. You can note a radical change in the Dress Goods Department; trade more than double over a year ago. Why? Samples are given to all applicants, goods are shown with the greatest freedom; energy is shown in every act; people are waited upon right; money s refunded on all goods not satisfactory. Broad-gauged, iberal and progressive ideas; what we aim at is to be known as the wide-awake retailers of Southern California; the very best methods alone will bring this about. To advertise one thing and do another kills a business dead as a nammer. Moderate priced dress goods lines our counters from end to end with buyers. Why pay two dollars a yard for a dress pattern, put up as a pattern suit, when you can buy something equally as good for a dollar a yard from off the piece? Why pay an extravagant price when you are the loser? Moderate-priced dress goods, 50c to a dollar a yard; moderate-priced silks, 50c to a dollar a yard; this catches the many? We work for this class of trade and we secure it. It is the same in Millinery; why pay an extravagant price for a hat when you can get as good a one for half the money. Nothing extra is tucked on for style. It is true we pay a high price to our trimmers—the large increase in trade at moderate profits more than makes up the difference and you receive the benefit. Why pay ten dollars for a hat you can buy here for $6.00? Why pay $5 for a hat you can buy here for $4? Fine Leghorn Hats, 25c, 50c, 75c, $1; Fancy Straws at the same prices. There has been a lowering of prices in millinery this season. Royal Worcester Corsets—you should know of their merits; the best way is to try them. If not perfectly satisfactory after a week's wear bring them back and get another of a different shape. Royal Worcesters are the best.

The Defendant Tells Her Story on the Witness Stand.

Brutal Treatment Received at the Hands of Her Husband.

Frequently Beaten and Otherwise Mis treated Without the Slightest Provocation-Testimony Offered as to Her Good Character,

The trial of the Ewing divorce case was resumed before Judge Van Dyke in Department Four yesterday morning, and occupied his attention all day. During the morning session the following witnesses were called and examined for the defense: D. H. Jenkins, John H. Venning, W. H. C. Johnson, Mrs. Flora C. Ford, Mrs. Mary M. Haven, Mrs. H. W. Crabbe, Paul R. Moore, W. C. Brown and Mrs. L. L. Blanchard. Their testimony was, for the most part, to the effect that, from their observation and knowledge of Mrs. Ewing, she was an affectionate mother, a dutiful wife and a clean and housekeeper, thus directly contradicting the evidence introduced by the plaintiff.

During the afternoon session Mrs.
Emma A. Ewing, the defendant in the case, was called upon to take the stand and testify in her own behalf. She is a delicate, refined looking woman, with very fair hair and delicately-molded features, small of stature and very slender. Her general deportment is unmistakably that of a well-bred and cultivated woman, and it was evident that she felt her position keenly as she was called upon to refute the charges preferred against her. Although laboring under the infirmity of total deafness, her command of language was simply marvelous, and as she recited the troduced by the plaintiff. simply marvelous, and as she recited the story of her wrongs, in response to the typewritten questions handed up to her her counsel, the scene was one which might have melted a heart of stone.

Both of her children were born in Wisconsin, Constance in 1884 and Wisconsin, Constance in 1884 and Ariel in 1885. In the fall of 1887 the whole family, which consisted of her-self, the two children, Ewing and his-son, Stanley, came out to this State and tocated in this city. Their first place of residence was on Broadway, where She stated that Ewing did not like this city, and about a month after their arrival here she reluctantly returned LEFT HER HOME.

Physician. No. "That's strange. The gentleman was looking for a physician, and I recommended you very highly."
"Yes, I guess that's the reason he sidn't come to see me."

As near as I can recollect it was about 17 years ago, during a very hard winter. The Ohio river had been frozen solid for about five weeks, and when the thaw commenced I was at Aurora, Ind. A man named Blackburne had a barge filled with salt which had broken loose and drifted down the river in an ice gorge. He hired me to go with him in a skiff to look for the barge and see if we could land it. He was a fraid it would if we could land it. He was afraid it would be ground to pieces in the gorge. We left Aurora about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and about 5 o'clock, after making our way through tolerably clear water, we were suddenly caught in an immense jam of ice. There was one cake which covered a space of half an acre at least. We pulled our little boat up on this big iceberg and prepared to make a night of it as best we could. It was bitterly cold, and though we were warmly clothed we had to keep running and jump-ing about on the ice to keep from freezing. To add to our misery, we had nothing to eat.

We slowly moved along until about 4 o'clock in the morning, when our ice cake stuck fast. For three hours we did not move a foot. Then we began to move again and floated all that day. About 6 o'clock in the evening we came so close to the wharf at Madison, Ind., that a rope-was thrown to us and we and our skiff were pulled ashore.

I shall never forget that night's ride. We did not know what minute our cake of ice did not know what minute our cake of ice might split in two under our feet and drop us into the river. It was a terrible thing the way it rocked and cracked all night long. When we were pulled ashore at Mad-ison, we were weak from hunger and stiff and sore from our 60-mile ride.—Interview in Louisville Courier-Journal

Straining Toward the Stars.

When in 1825 the Dornat refractor of 9½ inches aperture was constructed, it was considered a masterpiece, and it was considered the limit had been reached. Guinand, however, had made better glass possible, and Fraunhofer better workmanship. As a consequence there were constructed in 1845 two object glasses of 15 inches aperture, but this limit was again surpassed when we succeeded in procuring disks for an 18¾-inch glass, which were figured and sent to Chicago. Then followed the 95-inch lenses of the Washington and McCormick observatories, the 30-inch of the Pulkowa, and finally the great 30-inch lens of the Lick observatory. It must be remembered that the ground had been disputed inch by inch, and with each succeeding advance the limit of successful glass melting was thought to have been attained.

Even quite recently a noted optician, speaking of the possibility of obtaining disks larger than 36 inches, said it appeared to him that the chances of obtaining 40-inch disks in the present state of the art were remote. And yet there are now in my manufactory two remarkably fine disks of 40 inches diameter ready for figuring. Who, then, shall set the limit to this phase of the art, considering the great possibilities of scentific improvement and advance of the Straining Toward the Stars.

Ities.

As an important piece of news bearing on the much talked about project of the build. ing of an electric road between Pasadena and Los Angeles, THE TIMES is able to state, on what is deemed to be good authority, that the Consolidated Electric Company of Los Angeles has bought up the Pasadena Street Railway Company's line for a sum that ranges according to current report between $10,000 and $15,000. It is understood that the preliminary details have all been agreed upon, and that the transaction is already practically completed.

If the report is true, as it doubtless is, it will probably form an easy solution of an will probably form an easy solution of an important problem. As is generally known, the Pasadena Street Railway Company's track starts at the intersection of Orange Grove avenue and Columbia street. It runs east on Columbia street to Fair Oaks avenue, and thence north through the business heart of the city. The line extends to the northeastern section of the city, and is today one of the longest and best paying lines in town. More them the city, and is today one of the longest and best paying lines in town. More than this, the company holds a franchise for an elec-tric road over its present line, which was granted in 1891. One of the provisions of the franchise stipulates that the road must he built and operated inside of two years so that if the Los Angeles Consolidated Company has acquired this valuable privi-lege, all it needs is to build the road prior to September 27 next, and thereby obtain a dead cinch on its competitors. As it looks now, an electric road will be operat ing between Los Angeles and Pasadena in Several dances preceded the cotillon, which was wisely introduced early in the evening. C. B. Scoville led, assisted by Miss Stevens. There were five favor and as many fancy figures. The favors were pretty and of novel design, and the favor table was gracefully presided over by Dr. F. F. Rowland. Following the cotillon was a short programme of dances. "Dr. N. A. Dalrymple of Pasadena is in the city. He tells that never before has there been such a rush of tourists to the southern towns as at present. Many of the wealthiest and most notable people of the East have been buying winter homes. Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, whose handsome residence was some time ago destroyed by fire, is having the old embers cleared away preparatory to erecting a much finer residence. He mentions a lot of people who recently have secured residences there, like J. G. Greene, the millionaire of New Jersey; C. E. Stude-baker, the McNallys of Chicago, Prof. T. C. Lowe and many others. He adds that ten Lowe and many others. He adds that ten acres just across from Mr. Medill's residence had been selected by Mr. Blaine's friends for him, and that had he lived he would have owned it, built a fine residence and made California his permanent winter young city of millionaires, though there is a percentage of others. There are many improvements under way. A $100,000 ad-dition is being built to the Greene Hotel. This and five or six other large hotels, as well as the small ones, have been crowded all winter. A system of electric cars has just been completed connecting Pasadena with Altadena and other towns immedi ately at hand, all of which have a popula-tion of about fifteen thousand."

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees was held Monday night, all the members being present but Mr. Gardner.

The first matter considered was the at present all absorbing topic of electric railroads. Capt. Cross presented an amended petition, asking for a right-of-way for an electric railroad, to enter South Pasadena at Lincoln Park through a depression in the hills, and thence running over Pasadena avenue and Monterey road to Diamond to Mission, east on Mission to Mound, north on Mound to the Santa Fé Railroad; thence to run over the private property of the Raymond Improvement Company, and the Raymond Hotel property, crossing into Pasadena at the junction of Columbia and Fair Oaks avenues.

Mr. Clark, general manager of the Consolidated Electric Railway Company in Los Angeles, then introduced a petition on behalf of his company, requesting a right of way for similar purposes over the following described route: Entering South Pasadena on Arroyo Drive, in Lincoln Park, and running along said street, immediately east of the Terminal Railway, to Mission street; thence east on Mission to the Santa Fê Railroad; thence northeast, over private property, to Oak Hill avenue; thence north, over Oak Hill and Fairview avenues, to Columbia street.

north, over Oak Hill and Fairview avenues, to Columbia street.

Mr. Young of Garvanza, representing the third interest desiring to build an electric road, stated that he had not anticipated the board would take any action prior to the determination of similar petitions by the County Supervisors, and therefore had omitted to file any application for a franchise through South Pasadena, but wished to do so. Later he handed in a petition for a franchise for an electric railroad to enter South Pasadena at the western end of Mission street, and thence running along Mission and other streets to a point in the boundary line between said city and Pasadena.

A Woman's Odd Pets.

A Woman's 6dd Pets.

A Pennsylvania woman Mrs. M. E. Rice, keeps spicers as pets. The other day she sent to the bureau of entomology a cocoon containing eggs, which was spun by a handsome arachnid with striped legs and a reddish body. This creature, which is of a species that makes a funnel shaped web, she describes as being very tame.

"For months," she says, "it has lived over my bed, allowing me to examine it. When it began to get uneasy, I placed it in a box, where it spun a beautiful covering for its eggs. I am very partial to spiders and never destroy one nor its web unless I am compelled to do so. In my own room am compelled to do so. In my own room I let them have full sway. There are probably 50 spiders there now, and they never molest me. I find them all over the bedclothes. I believe the stories of their poisonous bites to be largely exaggerated.

Where I live we have many large black spiders. I found one of them curled up under my baby's neck one morning."—Washington Star.

How Trees Differ as to Their Roots Trees whose roots are of the same length and fiber do not thrive as well as those and fiber do not thrive as well as those which are unequal; because they develop better when their roots reach for nutriment in different strata or depths of the earth. The oak could not live in soil where the pine would thrive luxuriantly. This is owing to the nature of the trees. One requires the most solid nutriment. The pine requires light, sandy soil and the atmospheric conditions of sunshine and rain.

The oak, maple, elm, hemlock, birch and beech all require warm and clean soil. Trees are noted for picking out the attractive places, and where there are flourishing forests may be found the best of land, and the soil always productive.—Boston Transcript.

The Times representative (by special request) spent half an hour yesterday in a small room in the rear of Fred Kremple's store, surrounded by snakes, devil fish and many other repulsive products of the land and slimy wonders of the sea. Mr. Kremple has only been home from Milwaukee a couple of weeks, but in that time he has gathered about him some very valuable entomological and other specimens, which he proposes to take back to Milwaukee with him, and from there to the World's Fair, where the collection will no doubt and greatly to the attractiveness of the Orange county exhibit.

In the room referred to were snakes and lizards and ants and bugs and fish and birds of almost every kind and description. Some of them were dead and some of them were very much alive. The reporter became a little weary and was in the act of taking a seat on a five-gallon oil can over which had been thrown a small plece of gunny sack, when Mr. Kremple, with a twinkle in his eye, turned his index finger toward the tin can and ejaculated "Snakes!" But before the sound of his voice had traveled across the room the reporter was standing full twenty feet away. Sure enough, there were two beautiful ratlers, and when disturbed they would hold their tails aloft and sound a note of warning, just as if they were in the brush, and were being approached by man or beast. their tails aloft and sound a note of warning, just as if they were in the brush, and were being approached by man or beast. Newport as a Railroad Terminus-The Pacific News-Local and Personal Mention

There are yet hopes for the safety of the two carloads of exhibits from Southern California, destined to the World's Fair, and which were reported totally wrecked. The two cars, one loaded with Los Angeles county's exhibit and the other with San Diego's, were in the wreck which occurred last Wednesday, near Albuquerque, and the cars were smashed up more or less. The contents, consisting chiefly of cases containing glass jars of fruit, prepared in an attractive manner, were transferred to other cars and continued on toward Chicago. According to a dis-patch from an Atlantic and Pacific official, the exhibit was not damaged. It is possible, however, that, when the cases are opened in Chicago, some loss will be discovered. A number of cars loaded with oranges, consigned by private parties, were wrecked at the same time, and this was the fruit with which the neighborhood Indians regaled them. the neighborhood Indians regaled them-selves. The wreck was a bad one, re-sulting from one of the worst sandstorms known on the desert, and considerable money loss was sustained. If it should prove to be true that the Southern California exhibit is damaged, it would be an irreparable loss.

The increase of 25 cents in the price of neals on dining cars west of Chicago and St. Louis became effective April 1. and so far there has been no noticeable decrease in patronage. The waiters on the cars, however, are making complaint because their tips have almost entirely ceased. When 75 cents was the price of a meal guests frequently gave the waiter a dollar and told him to keep the change. It saved trouble. But now that the price of the meal is $1 there is no change to keep, and the percentage of men who will dig for an rextra quarter for the waiter is small. The average sum heretofore received each month in tips by a dining car waiter was about $20, and, with their monthly salary of $25, it gave them a reasonable income.

The Stock of Goods Has Got to Go.

The Store Has Been Leased to Othe Parties, Who Must Have Possession the 15th of May.

Buyers of clothing, hats and gents' furnishings will have it all their own way the next thirty days. The Pitcher & Gray Co., No. 223 South Spring street (second door north of the Los Angeles Theater,) have claimed all along that they were closing out to quit bustness. If anybody doubted it, knowing how common that sort of advertising is among clothing men, they need doubt no longer, for the stoce has been leased by the Security Loan and Trust Company and possession is to be given May 15. The balance of the stock is to be closed out at retail at once for whatever it will bring. The goods are first-class and in every respect desirable, and buyers will have a chance to make their selections and pay about what they please for them. It is a genuine closing-out sacrifice sale. Even the store fixtures, including mirrors, show-cases, nickel window-fixtures, counters and shelving, are window-fixtures, counters and shelving, are for sale. There will be, the next few days, such bargains as never were heard of be-fore in Los Angeles.

CURTIS & WHEELER'S Shoes & Cost

Not a few pair, but a complete line of them in all sizes and widths. We are compelled to do this in order to make room for a new line of Shoes which we have succeeded in obtaining the exclusive sale of, and as we do not intend carrying Cartis & Wheeler's shoes any longer, we have decided to close out every pair of them at actual cost. This is an opportunity which has never occurred before and probably will never occur again. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Dress Goods Dept.

Have you visited this department?

If not, there is a treat in store for yen. Day by day we have improved until now we stand second to none. You can find the finest novelties that are to none. You can find the finest novelties that are manufactured, and the prices are far below any that have been quoted. We place on sale today a line of All-wool Novelty Suitings, 40 inches wide, at 50c a yard; these were intended to be sold at 75c. They come in plaids, stripes and plain effects, and we guarantee that they are the best goods for the money that you have ever seen. Our line of All-wool Challies at 50c, 65c and 75c are already the talk of the town; we have over 100 different styles in colorings and blacks. The 65c and 75c grades are the genuine imported goods; the 50c grade is of domestic manufacture, but guaranteed to be all wool. Plaid dress goods seem to have taken quite a hold this season. We carry a very nice line of them, ranging in price from 50c to $1.50 a yard. We have just received a new line called Peau de Lainne; these goods have a satin finish and are the handsomest that have ever been seen; they are 40 inches wide, all wool, and our price is only $1.00. inches wide, all wool, and our price is only $1.00. We have a large assortment of embroidered Pattern Suits at $12.50, $14 and $18; these we consider the cheapest that have ever been offered; they are all new, this season's styles, and cannot be duplicated. We have just received an elegant line of Plaid Silks made for Shirt Waists; the combination of colors is very handsome and they can be worn with any color skirt.

Domestic Dept.

This is without doubt the largest department in the State

Our stock is now complete, and we are showing the finest assortment of wash fabrics that has ever been finest assortment of wash fabries that has ever been brought into Los Angeles. In Ginghams we are showing a splendid line at 10c, 12% and 15c. We would particularly call your attention to the 15c line, as this is sold in a number of places for Scotch goods and usually bring 25c a yard. The colorings are exceedingly handsome, and we will venture to say there is not a piece in the lot that is not a ready seller. At 20c a yard we show the genuine Scotch Ginghams; these are 34 inches wide and positively the best value that the money ever purchased. At 15c a yard we are showing an entirely positively the best value that the money ever purchased. At 15c a yard we are showing an entirely new fabric this season: it is called Poqhare Crepe; it is on the order of a crinkled seersucker, but much finer goods; the patterns are very handsome and will make up very stylishly. In the high grade of wash dress goods we are showing a much larger line this season than heretofore. The prices range from 12%c to 60c a yard. We have about 200 pieces of Half-wool Challies, all new goods this season. We intend placing them on sale for 18c; the price these goods are sold for all over the country is 26c. We are having quite a run on the Satin Glorias; if you have not seen them ask to do so, it will be worth your while; they are made up in exact imitation of the figured satin and it is hard to tell them apart; the price is 20c a yard. We are act imitation of the figured sath and its hard tell them apart; the price is 20c a yard. We are making a special feature of our lace stripe effects at 15c a yard; this is a new material, which is bound to be very popular; it is 30 inches wide and is said to wash as well as a piece of muslin. We have just received by express 50 pieces of double-fold Polkadot Chamreys, which we are offering at 20c a yard.

Cloak Dept.

The talk of the town today is our little Cloak Dept.

It does not occupy very much space, but the garments that are found in it are all of the very lates style, and the prices are far under anything to be seen in th's city. In the line of Capes we have about 100 different styles, ranging in price from $2.00 to $50.00. In Jackets we carry 75 different styles, both with cape and without cape. We can fit any person, as we carry a complete line of sizes. The prices of Jackets run from $2.00 to $25.00. It certainly will be worth your while to visit this department even if you do not intend purchasing; it will give you an idea of the class of goods that we are carrying and the prices which we are selling them at. We guarantee to save you at least 25 per cent. on all purchases made.

Glove Dept.

We are the sole agents

For the Foster Kid Gloves, and we are selling their 5-hook kid gloves in colors and black, in all sizes, for $1.00 a pair. They are without doubt the best glove for the money in the market, and we fit every pair to the hand. We have just received our new stock of Silk Mitts and Gloves. They far excel any-thing for value we have ever carried before. Our thing for value we have ever carried before. Our shifts range in price from 25c to $1.00 a pair. In Silk Gloves we carry a full line of colors and blacks, the prices of which range from 35c to $1.50 a pair. We also carry a full line of Rubber Gloves for gardening purposes, which we are selling at much lower prices than they are asking for them elsewhere.

THE PARENTS' DISCUSSION.

HUSBAND—"My dear, our boy Robert graduates from the public schools very soon, you know. Have you thought what he had best do then?"

Wirz-"Well, John, I'd like ever so much to send him to college if you think we could afford it." HUSBAND—"I'm afraid that is out of the question, my dear. Do you know that it would cost us at the very least $800 a year for him at any good college?"

WIFE-"Goodness! as much as that? Of course we can't send him. But I do want to give him a good start in the world, and I don't think a public school education is enough to equip him for the battle of life."

HUSBAND-"No, it is not today, when education is so general. Now, I've been set thinking by an adver-

Husband—"No, it is not today, when education is so general. Now, I've been set thinking by an advertisement I saw in THE TIMES the other day, and that is why I brought up the subject tonight. The great trouble is, I think, that most people stumble into business, are thrown into it by accident or temporary necessity, or are drawn into it by misguided ambition or a perverted fancy, without any serious thought as to their real fitness for it. When the years for learning the theory and practice of their trade or profession are passed they often awaken with regret and dismay to the fact that they have not only made a mistake in their selection, but have wasted the precious years of early manhood upon a wrong pursuit.

"Now, the chief thing for our boy's success in life is not education as much as proper education—that is, education along the line of his natural bent. It's a year or two before he graduates. I'm going to give him an opportunity of doing a little study at home during this time. I was looking at the TIMES edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica today, and it's really a great thing. With these valuable books in the house, Robert will have information upon every possible subject at his hand, and it is the most reliable information in the world. Whatever his natural bent is, he can find proper development for it in this Encyclopedia, whether it's the law, mechanics, engineering, literature or any of the arts and sciences. I think when he is ready to graduate we will have made up our minds what he is best fitted for by his use of these books. Besides, there he will find the life stories of all the great men of the past, and he will know of their efforts, their struggles and their successes, and he may have a better and more serious view of life. These books have in them all the inistruction he can get in a college education. Honestly, the TIMES has given us a great opportunity. Now, my dear, what do you think of my scheme?"

Wife-"It's just splendid, John; but what will the books cost?"

HUSBAND—"Why, that is the most surprising part of it. We can get them for only ten cents a day; just think of it."

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

About fifty friends of Hon, and Mrs. J. Marion Brooks assembled at their home, corner of Stanton avenue and Pico street, last Monday night in response to an invitation extended them to the members of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Nothing was left undone by the genial host and hostess which could add to the pleasure of the occasion, and the evening was greatly enjoyed by all several finely-executed pieces of instrumental music by the Misses and Master Brooks /and Walter Haas, and provisions were made for dancing for those who wished to do so. Another very pleasing feature of the evening was a recitation, "Genevra." by the celebrated elocutionist, Mrs. Morris, who told the beautiful and pathetic story in a most skillful and impressive manner. a most skillful and impressive manner. The remainder of the evening was de-voted to games and social intercourse, and after a dainty collation the company dispersed, unanimously voting the affair a great success.

Among those present were Dr. C. W. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bonynge. Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Bard, J. L. Pavkovich, Mrs. Lillle Kimball, Mrs. M. kovich, Mrs. Lillie Kimball, Mrs. M. QUIETLY SKIPPED. An Employment Agent Leaves Town Under a Cloud,

An employment agent named Lee Spencer, who formerly had an office in the lodging-house at No. 118 West Second street, has left town on the quiet, The company were entertained with presumably for his late home in Kansas The man's hasty departure is partially due to the fact that there are many creditors in this city who have trusted him often and for long, and partially because he did not wish to invite the acquaintance of the authorities, who, he well surmised, might be tempted to investigate a case of assault with intent to commit rape in which the said Spencer recently figured as the assailant. The affair happened over a week ago, and, robbed of the sensational features ascribed to it, becomes very commonplace. The person whom commonplace. The person whom Spencer attempted to take undue liber-ties with was a young chambermaid employed at the lodging-house. She had, in conversation with Spencer. The man finally prevailed upon her to drink some liquid he brought in a glass, which somewhat stupefied her, and he was endeavoring then to pursuade her to accede to his proposals when the landlord entered the room. ### SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.

A Discussion of the Spirals in Nature-Universal Laws,

A fair-sized audience attended the regular monthly meeting of the Science ing. Some routine business was first transacted, the most important of which was the resignation of Mrs. Mary E. Hart, the secretary, who is about to leave for Chicago to take charge of the Southern California historical exhibit at the World's Fair. The resignation was accepted, and W. H. Knight was elected to fill the vacancy.

William A. Spalding then presented the paper of the evening on "The Spiral in Nature," outlining a universal mode of motion and a universal type in the constitution of matter. The sub-ject was illustrated with drawings, models, specimens and a series of stereopticon views. Mr. Spalding laid down the proposition that natural motion is never rectilinear; neither does it occur in broken line nor in the line of a true circle or ellipse. The typical line of motion is a curve in three dimensions, which, if continuous turns into an elliptically-coiled spiral or helix. He showed that the axis of the first spiral of motion or vibration winds into a second spiral, and the axis of the second into a third, thus constituting a spiral of compiler spiral to the second into a third, thus constituting a spiral of compiler spiral to the second into a third, thus constituting a spiral of compiler spiral to the second into a third, thus constitutions are in the second into a third, thus constitutions are in the second into the second into a third, thus constitutions are into the second into the tuting a series of complex spirals.

This hypothesis was substantiated by illustrations of planetary motion; of the motion of atmosphere and water; of the vibrations of electricity and the vibrations of sound.

The spiral in structure was also shown in the mineral, yegetable and animal kingdoms, mainly by stereopti-Taking man for a specimen animal, the essayist showed that he is an assemblage of spirals, "from the crown of his head to the corn on his little toe,"

SPRAINED HIS ANKLE. Peculiar Damage Suit on Trial Befor

in a damage case against the Electric Railway Company, which came up in Justice Seamans's department of the Police Court yesterday afternoon. Webb said that some six weeks ago he was crossing Los Angeles street from Arcadia, and when he reached the electric car tracks he found the rails covered with water. In attempting to jump to a firm footing he caught his foot and fell, thereby spraining his ankle and incapacitating him work since. He therefore asked for damages, alleging that if the company had kept their tracks in repair the accident would not have happened. By stipulation it had been agreed to try the case upon the testimony of the plaintiff only. The witness' manner of replying to the counsels' queries was very trying, even for his own side, but the Justice managed finally to get at the main facts of the case. The cause was continued until this morning for argu-

THE GREAT FAIR.

Description, Preparation, Expectancy, Hope, Prophecy.

The California Building Grandly Conspicuous in the "White City."

Art and Decoration.

Opening, of Quarters, of Expenses and of Transportation-No Danger of Cholera, Special Correspondence of The Times. CHICAGO, April 5 .- Following what will soon be one of the great central sion of certain premises and the rents accrued thereon, was concluded, so far as the evidence is concerned, in Dedebris at the foot of Twelfth street, points of departure of the fair grounds, where already the trains of the Illinois Central leave for Jackson Park every wenty minutes. The magnificent depot, rapidly approaching completion, is only one of the marvelous palaces rising on the shores of the lake, to remain forever as a triumph of the year and the hurrying out and in its massive arches, that the day of classical and exquisite architecture has dawned in America.

When the magnificence of the fair has become but a proud memory in the minds of men, this will still remain. On the 1st day of May the trains will run every two minutes, depositing the visitor at either of the two entrances, the South Park entrance, in the midst of the State buildings; the Sixty-second street entrance, conducting one into the very heart of hearts of all that is finest and most triking to the eye.

This will be the route chosen by those who are at once strong, impatient and adept. There are already some eight or ten tracks, as close together as is possible. Upon these fast trains will be running in both directions almost constantly. At present no protection is afforded the passenger, who must look out for his or her own limbs and neck, but that safeguards will be established goes without saying, for else the mortality would equal that of an epidemic.

The ideal route for comfort and for beauty will be that by water, on one of the large steamers leaving the pier at Van Buren street. The fare for the round trip is 25 cents, as it is by rail, and there is but fifteen minutes more time consumed—forty-five minutes in all.

As the steamer follows the coast line, Chicago presents her most dignified and impressive face, marshaling her lines impressive face, marshaling her lines upon lines of beautiful private houses, broken almost every square by the greater bulk—a great wholesale house, a hotel, an academy of design, or one of the many rich and admirable hospitals, for which she is known so widely. Glory and gain is the factor in most of her magnificence, but here at least is the proof that somewhere in the midst of this crude, loud, greedy monster there beats a big human heart! To the humble seeker after every-day informahumble seeker after every-day informa tion, it is a relief to be freed from the burden of an alleged description of the fair. Clever people have done it, until even the best of them find it hard to who go the fair will speak plainly enough, to each in its own way and in his mother tongue. To those who stay away words are tinkling cymbals, and there are columns from which to choose. Details of interest to store up in one's memory are abundant enough.

Entering at the South Park gate, the first feeling is apt to be one of keen disappointment. As you step from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass force from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass from the eye from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass from the eye from the train nothing meets the eye but a mass from the eye from of roofs, and the foreground, so neces sary to any picture, is obscured wholly by a double row of cheap wooden shanties, lining the pathway to the gate. Even after you are fairly inside the confusion continues, due to the crowding together of the State build-ings, so that no one stands out in relief, but huddles hear its neighbor as if seeking companionship and support. The two exceptions to this rule are the Illinois and California buildings. Illinois, because she has simply taken the biggest and best place, as might be sup-posed, and California, because she was orn lucky. About a hundred feet from the "South Park" gate, the main road leads up and over a tiny rustic bridge, spanning one of the internal waterways From its railing you get the first and the best idea of the California State building. When I recognized it, I confess to a strong desire to crow over my Illinois companions, and to flaunt its bigness and its beauty in their faces. Nothing could have been chosen more simple in outline, more pure in color, more characteristic in idea, or better adapted for the practical purposes of exhibition than this enormous parallelogram, with its flanking mission tow-ers and the low, creamy-yellow dome rising into the sky amidst a little fringe of eye-like windows peeping out of the adobe wall. There will not a single Californian see it so, for the first time, whose soul will be so dead as to lack a thrill of joy in it. The architect is Brown of San Francisco. The dimensions are next in Francisco. The dimensions are next in extent to those of the Illinois building, being 144x485 feet. The south front is a reproduction of the mission at San is a reproduction of the mission at San Diego.

In all the other State buildings the style within has been that of a club, broken up into small rooms. The entire ground floor of this building will be open, making an incomparable situation for the proper placing of fruits and flowers and giving to the exhibition that entirety, that oneness, that "value" that is gained only by free open lines, and plenty of light, space and color. The plenty of light, space and color. The necessity for smaller rooms is supplied by a wide gallery, on the north floor of which is a banquet hall, an assemblyroom and a kitchen. At the south end room and a kitchen. At the south end is a café. Elevators — of a pure California brand — run from the main entrance to the roof garden. The papers announce daily the arrival of consignments from California and the consignments from California and the consignments are consignments. fornia, and they are no doubt awaiting the day of delivery in the cool caverns of the Transportation building. Just at this moment, however, the building presents a bewildering and discomfort-ing emptiness, and has not yet gotten beyond the dull stage of lath and plaster. It need not blush for lack of company, for, to state the broad and naked truth, not one of the buildings, State or otherwise, is anywhere near ready for occupancy. Miles of scaffolding, oceans of paint and mountains of plaster—that is the story revealed to the curious who

PRICE: SINGLE COPIES, & CENTS. so long that about its grounds all signs of rubbish have been removed, and a faint-hearted green is coloring the grass. No picture of this building can give the effect of grace that it possesses, because no process can bring out its crowning charm, the line of open pillared arches above the roof proper, and giving to this one, among so much rich magnificence, a final touch of spirituality. It is actually the touch of spirituality. It is actually the embodiment of the ideal of woman in her best estate—strength, simplicity,

It being a Sunday, not a worker was visible, neither Mrs. Wheeler nor her circle of satellites, but, through somebody's good nature, the rooms were un-locked for our inspection, that we might see what had not been done. The walls are ready for their decorations and are washed in gold shading to yellow and brown, while in the assembly-rooms and the numerous smaller ones the daintiest shades of spring are used— pale blues, faint greens, and others that might be only the shadow of a shade. The small rooms contain freizes in plaster from original designs, but only in the Cincinnati room is any progress noted. Here the freize is a riot of bronze, red and yellow roses, with bunches of spring twigs and April suggestions in the corners, and loitering up over windows and ceiling.

We neeped into Mrs. Polymer's announced the state of the s

We peeped into Mrs. Palmer's sanc-tum, where things were very much mixed indeed. Pictures—very bad ones they were, too-leaned against the walls, and there were hot-house flowers, brown-paper packages, typewriters, desks and articles of vertu, side by side. The large assembly-room, where are to be held so many important congresses, is as lovely as color and design can make it, but it has an unmitigable echo, and may prove an accoustic failure. Again, California comes bravely to the front. Under the direction of Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Bancroft of Los Angeles has prepared a series of fine fresco-freizes, which are to be placed over the arches of the inner court, where all the world may see. They are the interlac-ing leaf and bunch of the grape, in chocolate and russet on a golden ground, each section being prepared in lengths of about six feet. A com-paratively brief time will put this building in readiness for the placing of the exhibits, and it will be one of the few complete when the fair opens. This will most assuredly be May 1, will most assuredly be May 1, but those who cannot spend at least 2 month here will do well to delay their visit until June, for it is perfectly evident that the fair will not be really ready until then.

In the meantime considerable hardship is being worked upon a class of people who deserve a better fate. The army of middle-elass workers, who rent rooms in the suburban towns, are being already forced to fly to cheaper and more remote homes, or spend their incomes in helping on the boom in rates. Such quiet, pretty little towns as Englewood, for instance, are possessed of a perfect fury. Rents have risen out of sight and the residents are adjured to hold firm until the rush comes.

This is a straw that shows which way the wind will blow upon those who enter these towns unprepared. There will be many a shorn lamb who will find that here even Providence forgets to temper the wind thereto. As for ex-tortion inside the fair grounds, the distinct and final bulletin just issued by President Higginbotham under date of March 30 [Already wired to The Times] has settled that fear for all time. The official statement covers categorically the eight points upon which there have been discussion, disagreement and wild statements.

In a conversation with Dr. Martin, a well-known surgeon and sanitarian of the city, I asked for an honest expression of opinion as to the danger of cholsion or opinion as to the danger or choi-era. His opinion, based upon an exten-sive knowledge, was that there might, probably would, be sporadic cases, but that the idea of an epidemic was ab-surd, and that there was much less need to fear cholera than that constant and

A Sensible and Seasonable Present—A Lawyer's Opinion. A prominent lawyer makes the fol-lowing statement: "A few days ago I was counsel for the prosecution in a suit for damages in a case in which a child had received permanent injury to its spine, caused by severe punishment. 1 consulted the leading medical men of the city, requested them to furnish me with some treatise on spinal disease and injury, which, as an authority would be acceptable to the Court. Failing to find the work I sought, I was referred to the Encyclopedia Britannica by the most eminent of the surgeons. Borrowing the volume—treatise of the spine, its functions and injuries—from a brother attorney, I introduced its statements into the court as evidence, which the Judge accepted as conclu siys. Through it alone was I enabled to win the case. It may be needless to add that I hall your present offer as one long looked for and not to be neglected.

Of course I want a set of them."

A CURIOUS HEALTH FAUT.

Why the Death Rate Among Coal Minerals as Low as That Among Farmers.

Seeing the conditions under which coa mosphere, and their terrible liability to fatal accident, it might naturally be expected that their death rate would be excessively high. As a matter of fact this is far from being the case. Even when fatal accident is included their death rate is by no means an excessively high one—and

This, however, clearly would only explain why coal miners are less subject to these diseases than workers in metal and stone, and not why they are scarcely more subject to them, taken together, than agricultural laborers, nor why their mortality from phthisis alone is very little above that of fishermen, who have been taken as the standard of comparison because of their

The question is, Towhat is this comparative exemption due? There are two possible explanations—one, that the apparent exemption is simply due to the picked character of the miners inasumeh as none

Shutting Away Opportun

Shutting Away Opportunities.

At a dinner given in town not long since, the talk about the table drifted into a discussion of certain books on metaphysics which within a few years had made a deep impression on many minds. Some one was speaking of the quality of the author's work, of its peculiar value as a preparation for an understanding of subtler subjects which subsequent writers along his lines had expounded. The beautiful woman who sat near the kost looked up and asid, "You do not mean you find anything of value in that man? His tone is so irritating to me, I can't understand anybody's liking him."

This ended the discussion of the man, for the talk, as it always must among people

FOUGHT IN COURT.

Blood Flowed Freely in Department Three.

A Lively Fight Between Attorneys Wicks and Brooks.

Combatants Pretty Badly Bruised and Disfigured.

A Deputy Sheriff Receives a Broken Arn the Melee-Another Pugilistic Encounter Between Lawyers at the Courthouse,

One of the most exciting scenes ever witnessed in a local courtroom occurred in Department Three yesterday afterduring the hearing of a motion for alimony in the case of Alice M. Steinhauser vs. John G. Steinhauser, an action for divorce. The defendant, who appeared in response to a citation requiring him to show cause why he should not be required to pay alimony, etc., was represented by Moye Wicks, Esq., while the plaintiff was accompanied by J. Marion Brooks, Esq., as her attorney.

About 4 o'clock, and while Mrs. Steinhauser was upon the stand, under cross-examination, Mr. Wicks asked her whether or not her real reason for wishing to remain where she was now living, in preference to taking up her residence in rooms which her husband ffered to provide for her, was that her friends gave dances and lived a gayer life than that which she would live

Attorney Brooks objected to the question on the ground that it was imwas evident that Mr. Brooks did intend the word to be interpreted in its legal sense, Mr. Wicks took umbrage, and, grabbing a heavy inkstand from the table at his side, angrily told coun-sel for the plaintiff not to make such a

Just what reply Attorney Brooks made no one present seemed to know, but in the next instant Attorney Wicks hurled the inkstand at his rival, and immediately received another in return. His aim, however, was not as good as his rival's, for the missile thrown by himself missed its mark, while the inkstand burled by Mr. Brooks struck him on the forehead just over the left eye, causing a nasty cut, from which blood flowed freely. This only incensed Mr. Wicks the more, and, grabbing a heavy cane from his aston-ished client's hands, he rushed at and struck Mr. Brooks over the head, cutting his scalp.

Deputy Sheriff Rector, the bailiff, reshed in to prevent further hostilities, but the combatants broke away, and, as he attempted to restrain Mr. Wicks, the other attorney hurled another ink-stand at his opponent, which, however, struck the officer on the right wrist, fracturing it.

After a desperate struggle, peace was once more restored, and the combatants, who were deluged with blood and ink, retired in opposite directions to remove the evidences of the fray from their respective persons.

Judge Wade, to whom the enraged attorneys had paid no attention what ever during the affray, immediately dis patched Clerk Keyes for more officers and, upon the return of the somewhat distigured attorneys, adjudged both in contempt, and, summarily fining each of them in the sum of $100, remanded them into custody until the fines should be paid.

The proceedings were then concluded, and it was ordered by the Court that the defendant furnish the plaintiff with a suitable place in which to live and provide her with the necessaries of life during the pendency of the action; also that he be enjoined from selling any of the goods in his drug store, except in the ordinary course of business, and that he pay into court $100 attorney fees and $25 costs.

Mr. Wicks objected to the Court's order with regard to attorney fees, etc., claiming that the citation only required his client to pay alimony, but Judge Wade remarked, grimly, that he did not care for another hearing of this matter, and the case was thereupon set for trial on May 3 next.

At the close of the case E. A. Me serve, Esq., guaranteed the payment of Mr. Wicks's fine, whereupon the Court ordered that he be released from cus tody, and Mr. Brooks also escaped in-carceration by the assistance of friends, who gave bonds as security for the payment of his fine.

Both attorneys will, in all probabil-ity, carry the "evidences of their guilt" in the shape of scars for some time to come.

Complaints will probably be filed in the Police Court today charging Mr. Wicks with battery and Mr. Brooks with disturbing the peace.

ANOTHER FIGHT.

Another altercation, which, however, was not attended with such serious results, occurred at the courthouse between two other attorneys earlier in the day. The participants in this af-fray were J. J. Norton and Walter Hughes, and the cause a difference of opinion as to the latter's conduct in the case of Peter Young vs. Adam Trier-weiler, pending in Department Six. Beyond the fact that they were talking rather loudly, their actions were not noticeable, as they stood in the rotunda of the courthouse at noon. however, soon led to blows, the fight, which was witnessed by a number of courthouse attaches, ending when Norton uppercut his opponent and knocked him against the bulletin board, cutting

This really happened. It is the record iot of a vision of the millennium, but of a set. The reporter who witnessed the inci-lent secured on the spot seven unassailable dent secured on the spot seven unassatiable witnesses, all of whom pinched one another, took drafts of fresh air, water and other fluids, viewed the phenomens fron all sides and points and generally took pressutions against deception and delusion. The occurrence was in Brooklyn, at the Columbia theater, Friday evening. Before the cartain rose the body of the house was hid den by the usual array of monstrous millinery, the high hats with their furbelows hiding the stage from all who sat in or chestra chairs, except the very foremost seats. Seen from above the sudience resembled a forest of cabbage palms. From a level all vision was shut off.

Som after the opening of the play three tylish young women threaded their way along the middle row in the balcony and seated themselves in chairs directly in front of the stage. A suppressed moan of an quish spread behind them to the rear wall, for each wore a lefty hat that might well meaning the middle one to the inconvenience of crinches by contrast. To those behind them the stage was absolutely obscured. An unplant man murmured in a hearse whis

But soon as seated the middle one of the three women turned a face that assumed a three women turned a race that assumed a heavenly expression, even beneath her obtruding hat, and asked the man in the seat behind who was muttering things:
"Is my hat in your way at all!"

The man, completely upset at a question so unexpected, stuttered something about, "Not at all; don't mention it; er—er"—The lady with him said something about "a slight obstruction," but almost before she had spoken the girl with the immeuse hat

"Well, I'll take it off anyway." This she dut, and ner two companies tor-lowed suit, while the audience forgot to look at the play and gasped and gazed at the hatless girls. The example of their ac-tion produced a curious effect upon other ladies present. All over the baleony first one and their another big hat came off until the baleony presented an array of beautiful. one and then another on the the balcony presented an array of beautiful, bareheaded women. The stage disclosed itself as a ship coming out of a fog, and a wave of happy smiles swept over the house. The reporter climbed to the family circle and there observed a similarly phenomenal and there observed a similarly phenomenal state of affairs. Fully a score of women sat bareheaded and serene, with their big hats in their laps. The same was true of the parquet, and even one gorgeous girl in a box took off a stunning hat. If those wom-en only knew it—and of course they did— they contributed as much to the pleasure of the audience as did the players. If this of the audience as did the players. If this be not an isolated instance, there can be no question that Brooklyn, in one important feature, is leading in the march of civilization.-New York Sun.

Gains From Regular Habits. An English sientific philosopher lately made a half playful, half serious defense of the routine life of the man of "regular hab its."

He insisted that in this busy age, when so many duties press upon an active man, and there are so many things which una-voidably call for the exercise of attention, judgment and decision every day, it is the part of wisdom—a real conservation of energy and nervous force—to settle as many as possible of the routine matters by a fixed habit of life.

There seems to be sense in the suggestion. Why should a man with anything important to do in the world tax the gray matter of his brain newly every day to decide what he will eat or dright or wear, what his pleasne wheat or dright or wear, what his pleas-ures shall be and what his recreation, when he shall go to bed and when get up? Hav-ing arrived at years of discretion and discrimination, why can he not so order his life as to have these and kindred things come and go in a somewhat settled order?

To eat at regular hours the things he "finds good of," according to Bacon's rule, him. To rise, bathe, dress, exercise, work rest, recreate and sleep after a regular order is not to make a treadmill of life. It is to lay out a smooth road for journeying with the least possible friction and waste.—New York World.

Where Astronomy Halts.

To the layman it may be a matter of interest to know that even the great glass of the Lick telescope, with its 35-inch diameter and vast disk, brings into view no discern-ible surface on any celestial object outside of our solar system; it only marvelously increases the brilliancy of those twinkling points that lie beyond the abyss which the eye must traverse in passing from our solar system to the distant worlds of space. Polaris, Capella, Alcyone, glow from their remote depths only with an intenser brightess. They have never been drawn out of their almost infinite remoteness so as to disclose to human eyes any appreciable sur-face. When will their awful secrets be made known and the long silence of ages be broken? It has been supposed that the large tele scopes now in existence have nearly attained the maximum of the size within the possible reach of human skill, Here at least on the frontiers of the created uni-verse we must halt and wait until another day may break and the shadows of the present may flee away.-Exchange

A Theory About Dark Electric Lamps The cause of the blackening of incandes cent lamp bulbs has been the subject of considerable investigation by electricians. Various theories have been advanced, but all have been more or less unsatisfactory M. Bainville, manager of a large incandescent lamp factory in France, advances a new theory to explain the phenomenon. He suggests that the oxygen contained in the filament is responsible for the blackening. This forms carbonic oxide, which, when it comes in contact with the relatively cold wall of the bulb, splits up, the carbon being deposited on the glass and the oxygen set free to repeat the operation.—Buffalo News.

The Error of an Interviewer.

"I could write a book," says M. Zola, "called 'The Errors of My Interviewers.'
The funniest mistake ever made by any of them was perpetrated by De Amicis, the well known Italian writer. In an adjoining room when he interviewed me were two puppies, who were playing and barking. De Amicis mistook the yelps of these dogs for children's cries, and he imparted to the world in his interview that I was the happy father of two bouncing babies.'

The lobster and crab are not suitable for an invalid or one of weak stomach. Of the two, though, the lobster is less likely to hurt. The flesh in the claws is the most digestible portion. It is more delicate than that in the tail, which is firmer. The soft part in the shell, which is the liver, is much more likely to do harm than the claws. The gills, which are sometimes called "dead men's fingers," should be avoided, but are really not poisonous, as they are sometimes declared to be.—New York Mail and Express.

The Celestial Event Due Next Sunday.

Extraordinary Preparations for Photographing the Corona,

By Prof. C. A. Young of Princeton College Observatory.

The Shadow, Like a Long Black Tail, Will Brush Its Tip Across the Face of Mother Earth, and Then Proceed.

Special Correspondence of The Times.

PRINCETON (N. J.,) April 3. - Just now the interest of astronomers is very much taken up with-the total eclipse o the sun, which is to occur on April 16.

The shadow which, like a long black tail; extends nearly 250,000 miles be hind the moon, will then brush its tip across the face of mother earth, firs touching the Pacific Ocean off the coast of Chile, traversing the whole width of South America, crossing the Atlantic and finally leaving the globe in the middle of the "Dark Continent." Wherever it touches there will be a circle of darkness, varying in width from 80 to 120 miles, and it will move with a speed exceeding that of a cannon ball, cupying from three minutes to four and three-quarters in passing over any spot which is upon the center of its track. The fortunate observer so situated will, if the weather is fine, witness the wonders of a total eclipse.

The moon will appear to first strike the western edge of the sun, and little by little will encroach upon it until the whole of the blazing disc is covered. Then, while the shadow is passing, the scarlet chromosphere, the so-called "prominences," and, above all, the mysterious corona, the most beautiful of all celestial objects, will become visible for a few brief moments, until the sunlight again breaks forth.

On such occasions the exact moments when the moon's edge first touches and finally leaves the sun, and when "total-ity" begins and ends, are carefully noted, since such observations, made at known stations, are of great value in determining the moon's place and motion. But at present still greater inter est attaches to the "astro-physical" ob-servations which are possible only dur-ing the few seconds of total obscuration—observations with spectroscopes, photometers, polariscopes, and especially with photographic apparatus of various kinds.

With the spectroscope the observers will try to study the peculiar phenomena which accompany the beginning and close of totality, when for an instant the familiar dark-lined spectrum of the sun is transformed, and is filled with lines that are bright instead of dark; lines which, thoroughly observed and identified, would yield a most instructive record of the constitution of the solar surface, and settle instantly a long docket of disputed questions.

But the visual observations are neces sarily hurried and difficult, and afford great scope for personal bias; if the photographic plates can be made to register the fleeting facts—and the at-tempt will be made on this occasion with better prospects of success than ever before—then the record, if less complete than that given by ocular ob-servation, will be more certain and trustworthy. Hitherto, it is true, photography has not been very successful in dealing with this phenomenon, but since the last attempt the instruments and plates which are to be used have been greatly improved.

During the three or four minutes between the critical instants at the beginning and ending of the totality, the spectroscopists will be busy with the prominences and the corona, seeking to itilize the advantageous circumstances to obtain some new information as to their constitution and physical condi-tion; and in this mere deliberate work there is no question that photography will be most successfully employed.

There are a number of problems connected with the absolute and relative brightness of different parts of ona, and polarization of its light, and these will occupy the photometers and polariscopes. But the most prominent part by far in the observations of the eclipse will be taken by photography. As already intimated, many of the spectroscopes will work photographically; but besides this there will be a multitude of cameras of various construction designed to obtain pictures of the corona and prominences; some of them are planned for the detailed study of details of the whole extent of the corona with its faintest outlying streamers. Some of them use reflecting telescopes, some re-fracting telescopes of the ordinary construction, and some are large cameras with specially constructed combi-nations of lenses. Some of them em-ploy plates sensitive only to the invisiole ultra-violet rays which are peculi-arly abundant in the light of the corona, while others will use iso-chromatic plates, giving a picture more nearly resembling what is seen by the human eye. At present the study of the cor-ona constitutes distinctly the main object of eclipse observations, because the phenomenon in itself is so beautiful and wonderful, is so imperfectly understood, and because, while all other solar phenomena are at all times more or less accessible to modern methods of obser-vation, this alone can be observed only while the sun is bidden by the moon.

A large number of parties are now on their way to observe the eclipse at various points in South America and Africa. There is no Government expedition from the United States, but two small parties go from this country to Chile. One of them is under the charge of Prof. Schaeberle of the Lick observatory, and takes an outfit almost wholly photographic, devoted entirely to the study of the structure and extent of the corona. The observations are to be made fifty or sixty miles inland, and at an elevation of four or five thousand feet, so as to avoid the haze, which, in the early morning, usually envelops the coast in this season of the year. Another party, hailing from Harvard observatory, is in charge of Mr. Bailey, who has had a long experience in astronomical photography in California and Peru. It is quite possible that his party may be joined by Prof. W. H. Pickering, (brother of the director of the Cambridge observatory.) from Arequipa, where the new Boyden Fund observatory is being erected. The writer does not know certainly of any other parties which will observe in Chile, though it is understood that the Chilean government has taken measures to secure observations.

Mr. Thome, the successor of Dr. Gould in the directorship of the National Observatory of the Argentine Republic at Cordova, will occupy a station at Rosario de la Frontera, a little northeast of Tucuman; so far as we can learn there will be no other observers in all the interior of the vast continent; the country this season of the year. Another party, hailing from Harvard observatory, is in charge of Mr. Bailey, who has had a long experience in astronomical pho-

Controversy Over the Married Life of Columbus-The Old House at Porto Santo Where the Discoverer

WASHINGTON (D. C.,) April 3.-Although we cannot conveniently have at the World's Fair the house in which Columbus courted his wife over four hundred years ago, Consul Healy of Funchal has kindly sent us, a description of it, for, according to that official, the old house where Columbus whispered soft words of love to his future wife still stands at Porto Santo. Consul Healy's post of duty is at Funchal, and he says: "This archipelago is noted as being the home of Columbus for some years, where he ried the daughter of Gov. Perestrello of the Island of Porto Santo." Bartholomew Perestrello whose daughter Columbus married, held the position of donatario of Porto Santo in the dim and early history of that community, and built the house where Columbus paid his court and which Consul Healy has visited and described. According to his statement the house had been built a half-century at that time. His description of this building, sent to the State Department, says: "It was built close to the foot of a hill in the most secluded part of the town, and a high wall built against the hill; consequently it did not have much air and be shine from that side. Close no sunwas built the little chapel, which is the oldest and plainest in design in that archipelago. It is all stone, including the roof, with a small window 5 inches wide and 36 inches high. This house and chapel seem to have been sur-rounded by a wall, and there still ex-ists a low wall surrounding the church and chapel, and the remains of an old gateway. Had it not been for the fact that Porto Santo is a very dry place, the old house would have gone to ruin years ago. The east wing fell within the present century, and was rebuilt. The southwest wing fell some nine years ago, and is being reconstructed. The center still stands; one of the walls, though, has sunk several inches. little wing, which seems to have been used for servants, stands, though the greater part of its timbers are entirely rotten and liable to fall any day. The stone stairs leading to the upper floor of this little wing from the kitchen door are badly worn, bearing ample testi centuries. One curious feature of special interest at this time when Columbo-mania is prevalent, is the assertion that an accident there was the foundation of his discovery of the new world. Dr. Jaspar Fructuoso de Salva gives an account of Columbus's residence in Madeira, one of these islands, and says: "An Italian, a Genoese by birth, named Chris-topher Columbus, a man versed topher Columbus, a man versed in navigation, came from his land to the Island of Madeira, where his chief employment was making nautical charts. In the year 1486 a vessel, either from Andalusia or Portugal, had, through stress of weather, been driven from her course, when she met strange lands and scenes, supposed to be the West Indies, and, after a long and tem pestuous voyage, having been tossed to and fro on the billows, they were driven to this island, not knowing whither they were going. All the crew, except three and the pilot, had died. The pi-lot's name, and of what land he was a native of, are not known. The little band were so badly ex-hausted and confused that they could give little account of their journeyings. Columbus, finding them in such dis tressed condition, took them to his house, where he treated them kindly, but, being so badly fatigued by their but, being so badly latigued by their long and perllous veyage, the three sailors died in a few days. The pilot, finding that his end was approaching, and being poor, with no means to pay his benefactor for his hospitalities, gave him some papers and maps, some of which contained notes of their voyage, which Columbus accepted willingly. He was very diligent in his review of them, and, making comparisons with his own He was views, Columbus then began to think that if by chance he should discover these new lands it would be possible to find in them great wealth, and would gain him great honor and profit."

Consul Healy takes issue with some statements which have been made with mony to the many feet that have trodden them for more than four and a half statements which have been made reference to the history of Columbus's 'I notice that a learned professor in the October number of one of the leading monthlies deals at some length with Columbus and the Perestrello family, Columbus and the Perestrello family, in which he makes some very glaring misstatements. He says Perestrello had only one son as the issue of his first marriage. The fact is that he had no son by his first marriage. He had three daughters by his first wife, whose name was Beatriz Furtada de Mendonca. The first daughter by this marriage, D. Catherina Furtada de Mendonca, married Rodrigues de Vasconcellos of this island. The second daughter, D. Fillippa de Mendonca Furdaughter, D. Fillippa de Mendonca Fur-tada, married John Teixeira, third son of Capt. Tristao, first captain and Governor of Machico, this island. The third daughter, Hizeau, married Pedro Correa de Cunha, who succeeded his father-in-law as owner and donatorio of Porto Santo, which he was obliged to deliver to his brother-in-law, when he married at his majority. This Pedro Correa de Cunha was afterward Governon of Graciosa, one of the Azores. Bartholomew Perestrello's second wife was Izabel Moniz, daughter of Vasco Martin Moniz and a sister of Gracia and Christopher Moniz, the latter a Carmelite father, who was afterward Carmelite father, who was afterward bishop of Anel. As the issue of the second marriage the following children were born: Bartholomew, who, at his majority, succeeded his father-in-law in the inheritance of his father's estate, and D. Fillippa Moniz de Mello, married Christopher Columbus at Porto Santo. After Perestrello's death, his wife sold her son's estate to her son-in-law, Pedro Correa de Cunha, for 800 milreis ($324) and 80 milreis interest, which he delivered to his brother-in-law. Bartholomew Perestrello, when the latter attained his majority. Another statement by the magjority. Another statement by the mag-azine writer is that Columbus left his wrife in Portugal when he went to Spain to solicit assistance. The fact is that, when he arrived at the monastery at La Ribida, he had his little son with him, and that his wife was dead at the time and buried in the Church of Nossa Sen-hora de Piedade O Carmo, in Lisbon, as recorded in vol. If, page 203 of the records of the church, which explodes the theory that he left his wife and children in Lisbon and would never see

The new Saturnian theory on this subject is a little abstruse, but is equally remarkable. He Really Could Not Afford It. Madam was to have two teeth extracted and decided to take gas for the occasion. She was comfortably placed in the big chair and was enjoying the first sensations of breathing in the fumes. There was a de-licious murmuring that reminded her of the sounds of a lovely summer day, bees shumming and all nature at a lullaby. But she was still conscious, just dazed enough to fancy that a long time was passing and she was consuming quantities of gas with-out its having the desired effect. She must Concerning the Letter Y. A writer in Science denies that the lette y is a lineal descendant from the Roman Y which, in the time of Cicero, was borrowe which, in the time of Cicero, was borrowed from the Greek alphabet to represent upsilon in the translation of Greek names. The latter is only used, he says, as a vowel to transliterate upsilon in loan words, either direct from the Greek or indirectly through Latin or French. In, a great majority of cases the English y is a semiconsonant, corresponding in value with the continental j. Along with the other Roman letters, y was adopted by the Anglo-Saxons from the Latin alphabet, with a value approximate Latin alphabet, with a value approximating to that of i. In fact, he claims that there is not a lineal descendant of the An-glo-Saxon y now in existence. The letter y in modern English words is, curiously enough, he claims, not a y at all, but a lineal descendant of the Anglo-Saxon g, which was the Roman G, evolved by the Romans out of an earlier C.

The Poor of Naples.

By degrees it is to be hoped that the inhabitants of Naples, rich and poor, will be induced to go and live in the suburbs. At present there is a population which has increased from a little over 400,000 to hearly creased from a little over 400,000 to nearly 600,000, crowded over eight kilometers. Deduct the space occupied by churches and public buildings, and there is little more than seven square kilometers. And this is the first greatest misfortune for the poor in Naples. The problem of housing them is the first greatest misfortune for the poor in Naples. The problem of housing them solved, it will be, after all, but the alpha of the business. Man, having conquered the earth and the sea, will complete his dominion over nature by the subjugation of the atmosphere. This will be the crowning triumph of the coming century. Long before 1998 the journey from New York to San Francisco, across the continent, and from New York to London, across thesea, will be made between the sunrise and sunset of a summer day. The railway and the steamship will be as obsolete as the stagecoach, and it will be obsolete as the stagecoach, and it will be as common for the citizen to call for his dirigible balloon as it now is for his buggy or his boots. Electricity will be the moor his boots. Electricity will be the motive power and aluminium or some lighter metal the material of the aerial cars which are to navigate the abyss of the sky.

The electric telegraph will be supplanted by the telephone, which will be so perfected and simplified that instruments in every house and office will permit the communication of business and society to be conducted by the voice at will from Boston to Moscow and Hoang-Ho as readily as now between neighboring villages.
This will dispose of the agitation of the proposition to take the railroads and telegraphs away from those who own them and give them to those who do not.

tion to equality with man.

The contest between brains and numbers, which began with the birth of the race, will continue to its extinction. The struggle will be fierce and more relentless in the coming century than ever before in the his-tory of humanity, but brains will keep on top, as usual. Those who fail will outnum-ber those who succeed. Wealth will accumulate, business will combine, and the gulf between the rich and the poor will be more profound. But wider education and greater activity of the moral forces of the race will ultimately compel recognition of the fact that the differences between men are or-ganic and fundamental—that they result from an act of God and cannot be changed by an act of congress.

The attempt to abolish poverty, pay debts and cure the ills of society by statute will be the favorite prescription of ignorance, incapacity and credulity for the next hundred to the best of the control of the next hundred to the best of the leavest the best of the second of the leavest the best of the leavest the best of the leavest the leavest the leavest of the leavest the dred years, as it has been from the begin-ning of civilization. The Future of Cotton Manufacturing.

[From Our New York Correspondent.]
Mr. M. C. D. Borden has within the past year gained distinction as one of the great powers in a certain branch of the commerpowers in a certain branch of the commercial and business world. He is an authority on cotton manufacturing especially, and has recently completed one of the greatest cotton mills in the world. When asked his opinion of the future of manufacturing interests, especially cotton manufacturing, Mr. Borden said:

Cotton manufacturing in the south has

Mr. Borden said:

Cotton manufacturing in the south has come to stay. It is going to be greatly developed in the next century. It is going to be of vast benefit to that section of the country. The number of mills will be greatly increased and the quality of the product steadily improved. This will add millions to the wealth of the cotton producing states.

The pre-eminence of the New England states in cotton manufacturing will not, however, be threatened by this great and healthy development in the south. I do not look for any serious competition be-tween the manufacturers of the two sec-tions, but I am inclined to think that in the next century it will be found that American cotton manufacturers will have wrest-ed the markets of the world from the great manufacturers of England, who have for the greater part of this century controlled these markets. Just as surely as the tide rises, just so surely American cotton goods in the next century are going to command the markets of the world. We have already in the next century are going to command the markets of the world. We have already almost reached that point. We are competing in some sections of the world with Manchester, and successfully.

I think this is true, too, of many other lines of American manufactures. Our people are slowly, perhaps, but surely reaching the time when American goods will be in greater demand than those produced in Great Britain or upon the continent of Europe. In the next century the dawn of that day when our manufacturing supremacy is acknowledged will be witnessed, and, I think, by many people who are now living.

The commercial development of the United States in the Twantieth century will be prodigious. Those of us who are in business life now get some hint of it, and it is clear to me that while we are to be the greatest agricultural nation in the world we are also just as surely reaching forward for commercial and manufacturing supremacy as for supremacy in these products of the soil. It is going , to be a great century to live in, this one which begins seven years hence.

Joaquin Miller's Prediction.

I am not wise or learned in things to be, but will venture a few predictions. In the first place, our government will be less complex and go forward year after year with less friction and better results—like an improved machine. We will cut off the foreign vote, the ignorant vote and the verdant vote. As we grow better in body and mind venerable men will have their place of honor, as of old. If a good man by temperance and healthful toil and wise care preserves his body and mind, like Gladstone, for example, he has saved the life of at least one oltisen, a brave thing to do of old.

And it is not fit that such a man should be put in a prise ring to fight with lusty young adventurers for his place in the senate. It is already his by right. Let 10,000 entirely qualified voters, representing at least 100,000 people, send up to the state capital their oldest man, and it is all on the register. Let the state then send to Washington its two oldest Gladstones as senators, and so on up-to the president, and so on down to the justice of the peace. What a saving of time, temper, machood, money! When we have grown a generation or two of Thurmans, Blaines, Gladstones, we will leave elections in the hands of God, where we found them. This is my plan, my prophecy.

As for cities, we will build new ones, on pleasant, beautiful sites, as men now build hotels. Even now millions are waiting for those who will build a new city, complete sewers, pipes, pavements, all things complete, and empty the unclean and rotten old into the healthful and pleasant new. We are going to have great cities, such as have not been. Whereabouts I don't know, but all the world is going to town. Machinery has emancipated man from the fields.

What about big fortunes? Well, I think we will, some day require the bulk of the rich man's money, when he is done with it, of course, to build national parks with and in other ways help the nation which helped him to get hold of it.

As for literature, our writers will surely soon turn back to the oriental or ideal, as against the realistic school, and remain there. They cannot very well improve on the Bible, Arabian tales or Shakespeare. Meanwhile the sensational and personal newspapers of today will disappear down the sluice and sewer of indictable nuisances. Discoveries? Truly it seems to me that very soon some new Columbus will come from among us to launch his airships on the soon some new Columbus will come from among us to launch his airships on the great high sees and gulf streams that surge and roll above us. Yet maybe this faith is founded on what has been rather than on any sign of what is to be.

Who will be best remembered? Why, Edison, of course. Yes, most certainly we will be handsomer, healthier, happier, too, and ergo better, for man is not a bad animal at all if he only has half a chance to be good. And he certainly has such a chance to be good now, and to do good, too, as never was known before. And he will do his best with it. Let us believe in him and trust him entirely, for in that way is the good God.

JOAQUIN MILLER.

Warner Miller on the Nicaraguan Canal

[From Our New York Correspondent.] Ex-Senator Warner Miller, in speaking Ex-Senator Warner Miller, in speaking of the Nicaraguan canal project, said: "In the early years of the next century it is going to be possible to go from New York by steamer to San Francisco or the South American countries without making the trip through the Straits of Magellan. The Nicaraguan canal is as sure to be built as tides are to ebb and flow and the seasons to change. If the United States does not build it, either by private subscription or through the encouragement of the government, it will be built by those who live in other lands. The canal is inevitable, and the effect of its construction upon the destiny of fect of its construction upon the destiny of the United States is something almost inconceivable.
"It is to be as conspicuous an engineer ing triumph of the next century as the Suez canal was of this. The tonnage which will be carried through it will within five years after opening exceed the tonnage that passes through Suez. Its effect upon the railway problems of the United States no man can accurately forecast, but it will be enormous. It is going to furnish means for the development of the magnificent wealth of the South American countries, and if the United States controls the canal, or United States capital does, this develop-ment will be enormously to our own ad vantage.

"I cannot speak with cuthusiasm enough
"I cannot speak with cuthusiasm enough
"I cannot speak with cuthusiasm enough "I cannot speak with enthusiasm enough of this vast undertaking which is to see its triumph in the Twentieth century. I don't believe any men, however vivid his imagination, can fully suggest the enormous influence which this artificial water highway will have upon the commercial destiny of the United States. If I should suggest one-half of what I believe to be possible I might be regarded as an absurd dreamer."

rom Chief Statistician Brock, of the Treasury Department.

I believe that in 1993 we will have the most perfect republican form of government in the United States that was ever conceived in the minds of the wisest statesmen, and the social condition of the people will be such that there will be no suffering from the deprivation of the necessities of life. All will have happy homes. Vice and immorality will largely if not altogether have ceased to exist. There will be not only great intellectual but very great moral advancement. We are making wonderful strides in that direction now. There will be less government than there is now, and it will be more simple.

There is no likelihood that the railroads and telegraphs will ever be managed by the state, for the renson that when the state takes charge of railroads and telegraphs there would be the same reason that the government should take charge of all other enterprises which are now owned and controlled by individuals, such as street car lines, manufactures, steamship lines, farms.

lines, manufactures, steamship lines, farms. Individual enterprise and opportunities would largely cease. There would be no incentive, or comparatively none, for invention or for individual effort of any kind. All citizens would simply become wards of the nation and would receive their portions or indolent effort.

Probably the government will then own and control all the products of our gold and silver mines, and they will be held by the government, as now, for the purpose of redeeming the paper obligations of the government, although such redemption will harvely be unprecessary for the reason, that largely be unnecessary for the reason that there will be such stability in our financial laws that the people will not question the value of any of the obligations of the government.

The people by this time will have become educated to such an extent that the vice of intemperance will largely cease, saloons or public drinking places will probably no longer exist, and stimulants of any kind, if used at all, will probably be only seen in the family.

Improved methods of treatment for the confinement and punishment of criminals will be inaugurated and much more attention be given to their reformation than to their punishment.

Wealth undoubtedly will be much more Wealth undoubtedly will be much more evenly distributed. There will be great comfort and prosperity with the masses as well. The condition of the laboring classes will be less dependent and greatly improved, and there will be more friendly polations existing between employers and the employees, better understanding and greater equality.

Methods of agriculture will be such and the improvement in agricultural machinery so great that all the immense population of 1993 will be amply provided for, and

American citizens will continue to be the best dressed, the best fed and the best housed people of the world.

There will be great advancement in all the professions in literature, music and the drama. People will be longer lived. They will understand much better the nature of their wants and the treatment of diseases. They will be better natured and more conciliatory; consequently there will be less They will be better natured and more conciliatory; consequently there will be less need of the laws and laws methods. The whole tendency of the race will be toward comfort, leisure, luxury, cultivation, simplicity in dress and broader charity in all social relations. THE WILLIAMS TRACT

Adjoining the city of Redlands is now offered for sa'e in tracts from 5 acres to 100 acres each at prices ranging from $300 to $350 dollars per acre, including two (2) Bear Valley Water Certificates to each acre.

This is the most beautiful tract of land in the State and bound to be settled by the most wealthy people, for the reason that pieces from 40 to 100 acres can be selected with every acre as choice as in any 10-acre piece on the tract. The water is put to each 10-acre piece in steel piece, which adds at least $100 per acre to the value of the land over any other tract on the market. The Williams Tract is just the place and about the only chance left at Redlands for colonies of from four to twenty families, or associations wishing to plant good-sized tracts of oranges or other fine fruits.

Terms of Sale:

One-fourth cash down and balance in 5 years, at 8½ per cent, gross interest. No taxes on land until mortyage is paid. DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE WILLIAMS TRACT before buying elsewhere; if you do you will always regret it. For mans and further naticulars apply 20

Here is the Most Practical and Attrative Offer Eyer Made by a Newspaper to Its Patrons!

Seeds Given Away!

For the next thirty days we will give, FREE, with each yearly subscription to the SATURDAY TIMES AND WEEKLY MIRROR and $1.50. 12 packages, or six y centsworth of GARDEN SLEDS, put up by the well-known and reliable Los Angeles seed-house of The Germain Fruit Company. The same offer is made to all new three-months' mail subscribers to the DALLY TIMES paying $2.25 in advance, and to ail old subscribers renewing on the same terms.

This unique offer embraces every variety of seeds: Sweet Corn, Melons, Pumpkins, Squashes, Peas, Beans, all kinds of Vegetables, etc., etc. We are enabled to make this most generous offer by reason of having purchased the seeds in immense-job-lot quantities. We are building for the future, and have determined to greatly extend the already large circulation of our weekly edition, and stand this heavy expense, not for love or charity's sake, but as a matter of business, to attract a permanent patronage.

The Paper Better Than Ever!

A department particularly adapted to the peculiar character of our Southers California agricultural and horticultural interests, carefully prepared by a practical and educated farmer, will in the future, be a valuable feature of the Saturary at Times and Weeking Mirinon, and will also appear in the daily issue each Saturary. A Southern California News Page is also published weekly. These features, with the variety, reliability and general excellence of the other departments, render this paper infinitely superior as a general family newspaper to any weekly publication in the Southwest.

How to Obtain the Seeds.

Accompany your remittance and order for the paper with a plainly written list of the number of packages of each kind of seed you desire, remembering that twelve packages is the limit with a single order. For postage and packing we cannot pay. It will cost you lo cents extra, which is to be added to the amount of your remittance.

If you are already a subscriber, and have paid for some time in advance, you can obtain the seeds by sending the paper to a friend in the East, or elsewhere, for a year, and have the seeds sent to you; or you can have your own subscription to the Weekly extended for a year, or for three months to the DALLY TIMES, as the case may be, and obtain the seeds. Remit by money order, postal note or draft, 81.30 for the weekly, and 10 cents for postage and packing; or, if you wish the daily for 3 months, send $2.35 and 10 cents, when the paper and seeds will be sent to your address. If the paper is delivered by carrier, the price for the 3 months with the seeds, will be $1.65.

FORAGE PLANT SEEDS.

In addition to the regular seeds kept by the seed houses, we are able to supply a quantity of new Forage-Plant Seeds, which are highly recommended; also a new variety of SUGAR BEET SEED. Following is a detailed description of each variety of the forage-plant seeds:

Kaffir Corn-Branches from the top joints. Every part of the plant, stalk included, cures into excellent fodder and is good for green feed at all stages of its growth. Stands heat and drought well. Sow in drills 3 feet apart or broadcast at the rate of 10 pounds per acre.

Kellow and White Millo Maize-(Branching Dhoura) Nearly alike, except in color of grain. Withstands drought well. May be cut and fed at any stage, or cured for fodder. Sow 5 pounds per acre. in rows 4 feet apart, 18 inches apart in the rows, nwe or six seeds in each hill, and cultivate same as corn.

CARROTS FOR STOCK.

Improved Long Orange—Grows to a large size, averaging a foot in length, with a diameter of three inches at the top. Good for stock.

Large White Beigian—Very productive. Grown for stock feeding exclusively.

Grows one-third out of the ground.

NEW SUGAR BEET (The Kleinwanzlebener)—Is recommended by the Agricultural Department as being the best yet introduced.

These forage-plant seeds will be given in 5-cent packages on the same condition as the standard seeds.

The New Standard Atlas of the World!

A quarto volume of nearly 200 pages, containing over 100 maps of all the Countries in the World, and all the States and Territories and many of the Principal Cities of the United States. Most of these maps are the full size of the page. SOME OF THE CONTENTS

Numerous diagrams and tables afford graphic instruction in facts relating to area and population of the world; Area of States and Territories; Production of Minerals and Cereals in Various Parts of the World; Comparative Facts about Rivers and Mountains; Elucidation of the Solar System; Weights and Measures; Religious and Other Facts and Figures, all presented in a pleasing and comprehensive shape. There is much well-written historical and descripter matter touching all portions of the globe, attractive in style and correct in particulars. Then there is also a long list of Discoveries, Explorations and Important Events, arranged chronologically from the year 1500 to the present time. One page of the Atlas is devoted to a plate showing the flags of all nations, printed in the true colors of the originals.

Style of the Book. The binding is good, the paper is heavy, the printing is large and clear. The maps and diagrams are in colors to better distinguish boundary lines and the various divisions; and the whole makes one of the most attractive and best arranged books of its kind ever published.

HOW TO GET THE ATLAS.

Subscribers may secure the Standard Atlas on the following unequaled terms, which cannot be approached by the average bookseller:

A volume will be given to those who pay $4.55 for a three-months' subscription to the DAILY TIMES: or those who pay $10.20 for a year's subscription to the DAILY TIMES: or those who pay $10.20 for a year's subscription to the DAILY TIMES the regular pice.) will be presented with an atlas outright. To those who subscribe for the SATURDAY TIMES AND WEEKLY MIRROR and pay $3.45, an Atlas will be given. The usual retail price of the Standard Atlas is $6.00. Thus, under the above offer, subscribers secure the volume for much less than publisher's price, and the paper besides. Where the Daily is sent by mail the yearly subscription price is $9.00 instead of $10.20.

[Eleanor Kirk's Idea.]

An ancient legend tells us that the angel on guard at the door of heaven was once asked by an inquisitive passer if more married or single women passed through.
"More married ones," he promptly answered.

"Indeed!" said the questioner, who was a man, and who immediately began to plume himself. "Their husbands" virtues, of course, admitted them. That was right. The stronger should aid the weaker." "No," replied the angel, "that is not the reason."
"Then what is it?"

"Well, if you must know," said the angel confidentially, "we pass them first on their own merits; lots of 'em get through that way. Then when we can't find any other recommendation for a married woman, it is written against her name 'these are they which have come up out of great tribulation! and the gates fly open.

Notice.

Notice of Sale of Property Delinquent, for the Non-payment of Assessment for Improving First Street.

Notice is Herry Given that Default having been made in the payment of the first annual installment of the principal and the interest due January I, 1893, on the hereinafter, described bonds, being improvement bonds, series No. I, issued for the improving of First street, between Quebec street and the west city limits of the city of Los Angeles, State of California, and D. F. Donegan, the holder of each of said bonds, having demanded that the City Treasurer proceed to advertise and sell the respective lots or parcels of land described in each of said bonds, and upon which separate pieces of property said bonds respectively are liens: now, therefore, I, H. J. Shoulters, City Treasurer in and for the city of Los Angeles, State of California, hereby give notice that by virtue of the authority vested in me by law, unless each of said hereinafter described bonds, together with the interest, costs and perfaltes thereon, are paid on or before Thursday, the 4th day of May, 1893, at 10 o'clock am, I will, on that day and time, offer for sale at public auction at the easterly door of the county courthouse, in said city of Los Angeles, each of the hereinafter described lots and parcels of land, upon which each of said bonds respectively are liens, and that I will sell the smallest quantity of each of said lots and parcels of land that will be taken by any person for the amount of the principal, interest, penalty and costs remaining due and unpaid upon each of said respective bonds.

The following is a description of each of said bonds, giving each bond its number, as due and unpaid upon each of said respective bonds.

The following is a description of each of said bonds, giving each bond its number, as well as the assessment number for which it is issued, and a description of the property upon which each respectively is a lien, the description being given by lot, block and tract, all being in the said city of Los Angeles, and the amount set after each respective lot or tract is sithe amount of prihcipal of each of said bonds:

There is also interest due upon each of said amounts from the 5th day of December, 1892, at the rate of 8 per cent. per anum, which will be added to said amounts, together with the costs and penalties allowed by law, and the total amount of principal, interest, costs and penalties will be the total amount for which each of said respective properties will be sold.

I will continue such sale from 1 day to day until each of said properties hereinbefore set forth, or so mu in thereof as may be necessary, shall have been sold.

H. J. SHOULTERS,
City Treasurer of the city of Los Angeles,
Los Angeles, Cal., April 11, 1893.
